Accessing Electronic Resources from Off Campus

UNCP students, faculty, and staff accessing electronic resources from off campus will need to have a library account and a Personal Identification Number (PIN). A library account is automatically created for all UNCP students. Information about PINs is available at www.uncp.edu/library/electronic/pin.html.

Electronic resources (databases) are listed by title and subject at www.uncp.edu/library/electronic/. Students are encouraged to use the subject pages, which lists all electronic resources by subject.

When you click a database link you will see a login window with three boxes (see image below). All library-related login screens (with the exception of Interlibrary Loan) contain three login boxes. Put your first or last name (not both) in the first box. Enter your University ID (your Banner number) in the second box, and enter your PIN in the third box and click the Submit button. The database should then open.

Please enter the following information:

Enter your last or first name:

smith

Enter your University ID Number:

840000332

If you have not previously selected a PIN, do so now.

Please enter your PIN:

19Gss32

Submit

Your PIN is case sensitive

Many electronic resources provide full-text articles, as well as article citations, which contain important identifying information (such as author, title, and publication information) but not the actual article. Most databases provide a direct link to Journal Finder [www.uncp.edu/library/finder.html]. Click the computer monitor icon  to see if a journal title may be full text in another database. Click the book icon  to see if a journal title is available in the Library (see image below).
