LIVERMORE LIBRARY BEGINS NEWSLETTER

Welcome to the first issue of the Mary Livermore Library newsletter, Library Lines. The library staff hopes you will enjoy both the news and the information about upcoming events. This issue is made possible through funding from the Friends of the Library of Pembroke State University organization. Future issues will be printed with desktop publishing equipment made possible by a portion of the funds given to Pembroke State University in 1991 by the president of the University of North Carolina system, C.D. Spangler, Jr. Our goal is to produce three issues per year. Distribution of the two thousand copies will be to students, faculty, staff, members of the Friends of the Library, and other libraries in the University of North Carolina system.

We want to draw your attention to the Friends of the Library page (which will be a regular feature), the information about National Library Week, the news about the effects of budget cuts on the library, and the sonnet reading held this past fall. Regular features are personnel changes, new and noteworthy acquisitions and a "Focus On:" section. The latter section will provide information about different processes in and services available through the library.

Members of the Newsletter Committee include Lillian Brewington, Elinor Bridges, Brenda Bullock, Carlene Cummings, Gwen Locklear, Jean Sexton, and John Shields. The editorship will rotate; editor for this edition of Library Lines is Jean Sexton.

LIBRARY TO SPONSOR CENSORSHIP EXHIBIT

Scheduled for display at the Mary Livermore Library during April 1992 is a traveling censorship exhibit developed by the Long Island Coalition Against Censorship. "Censorship in Schools and Libraries" has been displayed in more than 100 public and college libraries since its development in 1987. Pembroke State University is the only exhibition site scheduled thus far in North Carolina.

Exhibit Director Donald Parker states that the exhibit "will give people in local communities an opportunity to get a sense of the scope of censorship and how it frequently appeared and continues to appear throughout the United States."

The exhibit includes 24 graphic illustrations with accompanying text. It deals with the history of censorship in schools and libraries, highlighting incidents of censorship during the last 100 years. Included is information on the Supreme Court's decisions on scientific creationism and freedom of expression in public schools.

The exhibit is free and open to the public at the Mary Livermore Library in April during regular hours of operation.

BUDGET CUTS AFFECT THE LIBRARY

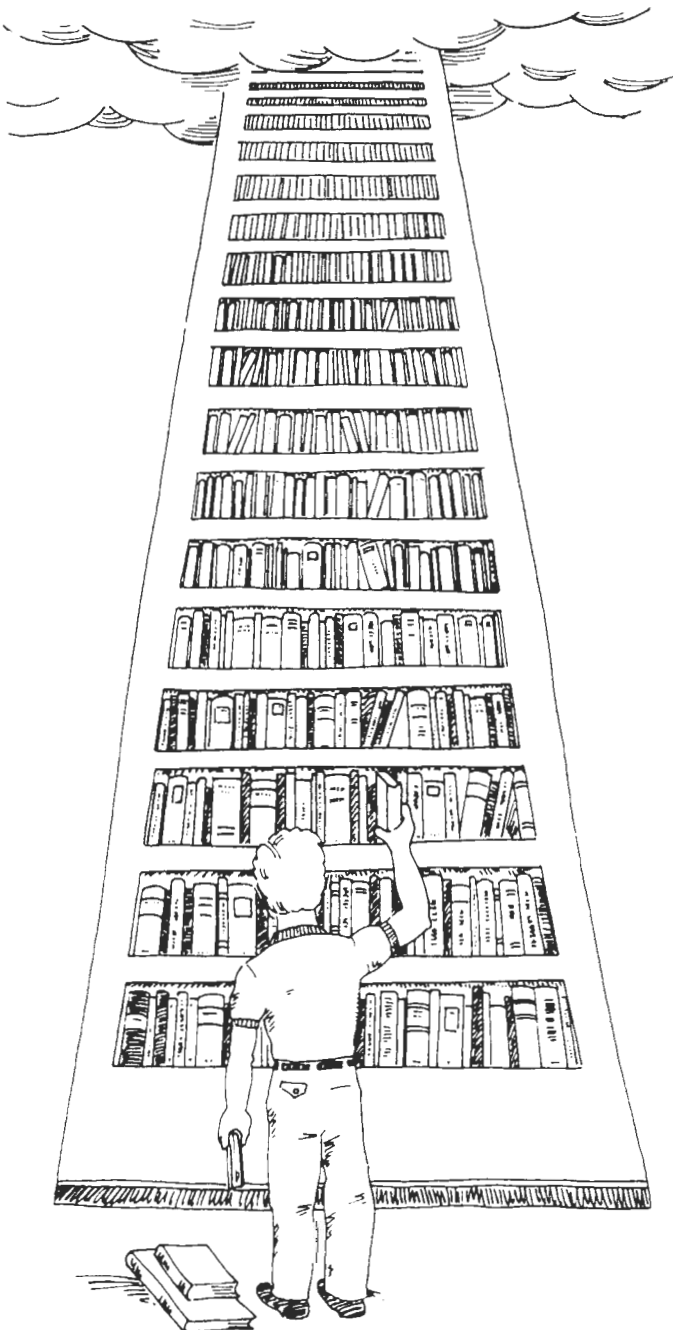

Libraries nationwide have been damaged by adverse economic conditions during the past few years, and the Mary Livermore Library has been no exception. For the past three years the PSU library has been hampered in its efforts to support the curriculum by budget cuts which were effected due to the economy. A report on the impact of budget cuts on the Mary Livermore Library was prepared by Library Director Elinor Bridges and submitted to J.T. Morley, Chairman of the Subcommittee on Academic Support Services, on November 31, 1991, at Dr. Morley's request. The report was subsequently submitted by Dr. Morley to the Academic Affairs Committee.

Highlights of the report indicate drastic cuts in funds available for equipment and serious reductions of funds available for the addition of materials were major considerations. The loss of equipment money primarily affected patrons in terms of lesser ability to purchase equipment needed to develop compact disk resources and to enhance the online catalog. The book collection has grown less rapidly than desirable, and part of the collection growth that has taken place has been due to gift books. For example, of the 3,224 monographs added to the collection in fiscal year 1989-90, 67% were paid for from library funds; the others were gifts.

In 1991-92, when funds for collection growth were cut about 15%, the library staff was again forced to seek ways to most effectively enhance collection growth. At that time the decision was made to cut funds designated for the addition of popular literature by eliminating the McNaughton books (see the related article) and cutting funds for bestsellers.

Concerning periodicals and other serial resources, the library currently allocates about one half of the materials budget to serials. If the library's materials budget is cut in the future, one half of that cut will be made in the serials budget. This potential problem is compounded by the fact that the subscription costs of serials rise each year, and the expected rise in subscription costs charged by publishers this year is in the six to ten percent range. So, even if the budget is not cut, there is still the problem of covering the rise in subscription costs. Efforts to reduce the harmful effects of cuts and rising costs were made by the library, including: cancelling subscriptions to some recreational reading titles; dropping subscriptions to some library science titles and relying more on interlibrary loan for articles from these titles; the development of departmental lists of periodicals so as to work with academic departments in the future in case an across the board cut is needed; and, taking cost-effective measures in the serials department (such as placing renewals and new orders of periodicals early in the fall, and placing high theft items in stacks reserved).

Indications are as this newsletter goes to press that the economy is rebounding somewhat. The library staff is hopeful that at least previous budget cuts will be restored, and that perhaps increases in funding will be made available in 1992-93. This aspiration is especially important in terms of the need to purchase new materials for the nursing program, which the library is presently not in a position to adequately support. Otherwise, the library can only hope to strive for continuation of its present level of support for the University curriculum.

McNaughton Survey Results Point Toward Support For Recreational Reading

For the third straight year, the library budget for materials was cut; in the fall of 1991, 15% less money was available to buy books and periodicals than had been anticipated. Each year of budget cuts brings questions of how the library can continue to fill its support function if growth is financially restricted.

In September 1991, the librarians responsible for managing the budget reviewed the level of funding available and decided to free up all available funds for the addition of scholarly materials. Partly, the decision was made on the basis of faculty reaction to a library survey conducted in April 1991 wherein some faculty members commented that the Livermore Library should concern itself first and foremost with serving the campus community rather than the general community. Too, a public library was opened in Pembroke for the first time, in July 1991, making available an alternate source for recent popular books for Pembroke residents and also for students of Pembroke State.

The book budget funds which in 1990-91 supported recreational reading amounted to less than 3% of the monies expended for books. Purchased with these funds were selected bestsellers and some of the books leased from the McNaughton Company of Williamsport, Pennsylvania. Both sources provided new reading materials, fiction and nonfiction; many of the McNaughton books were also purchased for the library collection at a substantial discount. The last group of McNaughton books received in December 1991 included the new book about Margaret Mitchell, Southern Daughter, and the James Earl Ray book, Who Killed Martin Luther King?, both widely reviewed. Funds for bestsellers were cut and funding for the McNaughton program was eliminated. Diverted funds went toward the purchase of books selected by faculty to support their programs.

The last McNaughton books were removed from the shelves in December 1991. They were missed right away by those patrons who often stopped by to look over the selection. Some readers, both faculty and students, seemed surprised and disappointed to see the McNaughton books gone. Others probably didn't miss them. Some patrons commented favorably on the decision to divert funding to the purchase of books to support the curriculum.

In order to explain the absence of the McNaughton books, a sign was placed near where the books had been shelved. The sign brought further protests from readers of the McNaughton books about their absence. Subsequently a survey was devised to gain information about whether the rental plan books should be reinstated, should funds become available through a restored budget. Survey results follow.

Faculty: 96 of 189 responded, for a response rate of 51%. Favoring reinstatement of the McNaughton Plan were 41 (43%); not in favor were 27 (28%); 28 (29%) had no opinion but did respond to the survey. Comments by faculty indicated two main opinions: (1) development of the reading habit by students is desirable and recreational reading can help; (2) the Livermore Library is not a public library and should concentrate on building an academic collection.

Students: 97 responses were received from volunteers; no questionnaires were mailed, and response was based on the interest of students who were in the library. In favor of reinstatement of the McNaughton books were 82 students (85%); 11 (11%) did not favor this action; 4 (4%) had no opinion. Comments indicated that most respondents enjoy the recreational reading opportunity provided by McNaughton books; some students indicated the desire to see more scholarly books added to the library collection.

Overall, the survey seems to indicate that the McNaughton books are missed, but there is substantial support for the decision to eliminate this service in light of the budget.

No decision will be made about whether to consider reinstatement of the McNaughton books until the new budget is received next August or September.

Teresa L. McManus

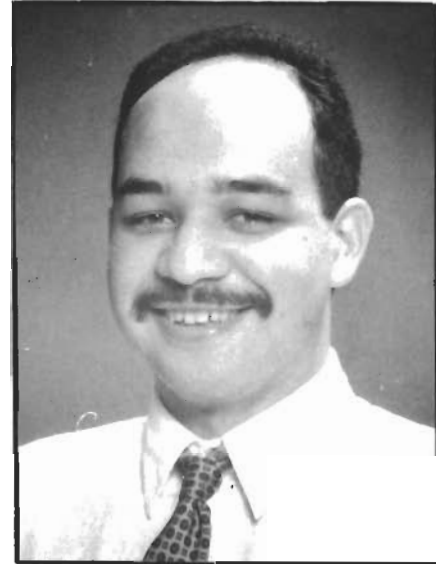

Joining the staff of the Mary Livermore Library in September 1991 as Acquisitions/Collection Development Librarian was Ms. Teresa L. McManus. Teresa received the Master's degree in Library and Information Studies in December 1990 from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Ms. McManus also holds the MA degree in political science from the New School for Social Research (New York City) and the BA in Psychology from Evergreen State College, Olympia, Washington. Teresa and her husband, Joe Botts, live in Fairmont and have two sons, Topaz and Jules.

Joining the library staff at the same time as Teresa McManus was Ms. Wanda Flanagan-Wing, also a graduate of the UNC-G Library and Information Studies program. Following six months employment as Catalog/Retrospective Conversion Librarian, Wanda resigned, effective February 29, due to her husband's career plans.

Promoted to Library Clerical Generalist (Library Clerk III) effective December 1, 1991, was Ms. Tela S. Brooks. A graduate of Robeson Technical College with the A.A.S. degree in Police Science, Tela joined the library staff in June of 1987. Her current responsibilities include assistance with periodicals, documents, retrospective conversion, and interlibrary loan functions. Tela and her husband Craig welcomed a son, Craig, Jr., in August 1991. They are also parents of a daughter, Candice.

Ms. Carlene O. Cummings was promoted to a full-time position on the library staff, effective December 1, 1991.

Now Serials Clerical Assistant (Library Clerk II), Ms. Cummings formerly served part-time as a Circulation Clerk. Carlene Cummings is a 1987 graduate of the Criminal Justice program of Pembroke State University. Carlene and her husband, Anthony, are parents of a first-grade daughter, Karrin.

Jason A. Jacobs

The most recent addition to the library staff is Jason A. Jacobs. Mr. Jacobs, a 1990 graduate of Pembroke State University with a degree in English Language and Literature, currently serves as a part-time Circulation Clerk. A native of Robeson County, Mr. Jacobs teaches Spanish part-time at Riverside Christian School and is a bachelor. Jason joined the library staff December 1, 1991.

Dr. Robert W. Brown, Associate Professor of History, has graciously provided assistance to the library during the fall and spring semesters by serving on search committees. During the fall he participated in search committee activities pertaining to the position of Coordinator of Public Services. This committee has now disbanded, and a new committee has been formed to search for a Reference/Bibliographic Instruction Librarian. The faculty viewpoint provided by Dr. Brown regarding library positions which render direct service to patrons is greatly appreciated.

Public Services Generalist Librarian Mrs. Normie Bullard has been undergoing treatment for a ruptured disk and has been unable to work since January 24, 1992. Reports from Normie indicate that her therapy has been helpful and she is making progress toward recovery.

FOCUS ON: CD-ROMs

The Mary Livermore Library currently subscribes to several CD-ROM (Compact Disk—Read Only Memory) databases, or indexes. CD-ROMs are valuable research tools for faculty and students as they enhance access to periodical articles and other items, such as ERIC and other U.S. government documents. CD-ROM indexes available in the library include:

INFOTRAC's Academic Index and Government Publications Index.

Academic Index—this index is recommended as a good starting point for research in the humanities, social sciences, and the general sciences. It indexes over 400 scholarly and general interest periodicals, most of which are subscribed to by the Livermore Library, as well as selected articles from the last six months of the New York Times. Some limitations of this index include: it contains citations for the current and previous three years only; and it indexes only representative periodicals of the various disciplines.

Government Publications Index—an index that corresponds to the printed copy of the Monthly Catalog of United States Publications, beginning in 1976. This index cites the public documents produced by the legislative and executive branches of the federal government. The major limitation to this index is that the Livermore Library does not own all the documents cited.

ERIC on Silverplatter—the ERIC (Educational Resources Information Center) system is produced by the U.S. Department of Education, and it is one of the largest clearinghouses of information on education. The ERIC CD-ROM available in the library is produced by a private firm (Silverplatter), its coverage begins in 1982, and it is the most comprehensive database on educational resources (periodicals and ERIC documents) available in the library. ERIC documents consist of miscellaneous items, such as: dissertations; policy papers produced by local, state, and federal government education agencies; reports of research done under government contract; and research studies done by universities. Paper copies of the ERIC indexes, beginning in 1969, are also available in the library. Many of the periodicals and the majority of the documents indexed by ERIC on Silverplatter are available in the library.

NEWSBANK's Newsbank, Business Newsbank, Names in the News, and Review of the Arts.

The various Newsbank indexes selectively index newspapers from over 450 U.S. cities, providing access to current events and issues. This service also provides full-text copies of those articles on microfiche. Printed copies of this index are also available. The library's subscriptions to these various indexes begin as follows: Newsbank—1984; Business Newsbank—1988; Names in the News—1984; Review of the Arts—1986.

The library has received a first year subscription of the Social Sciences Index CD-ROM, thanks to the Political Science Department's request of the Spangler gift funds. This CD-ROM will be up and running as soon as the Office of University Computing and Information Services can provide technical support in setting up the system.

National Library Week 1992

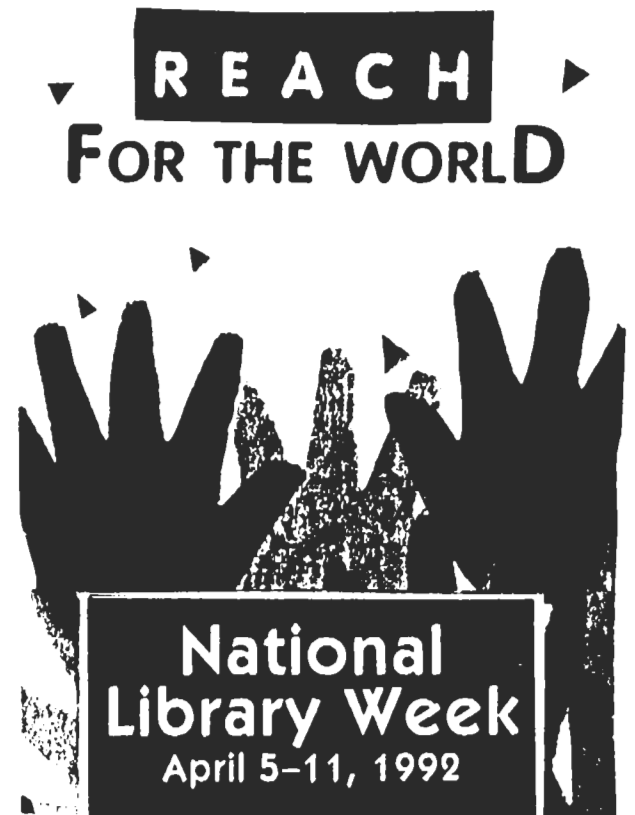

To Be Observed April 5-11

Once again the Mary Livermore Library will participate in the observance of National Library Week. The theme will be "Reach for the World." Dates of the week, which will feature several special activities, are April 5-11.

The purpose of observing such a library emphasis week is to publicize the value of the library to the campus, or as has been stated by the American Library Association, "To work toward an ever-greater awareness and use of the library by the campus 'family' and to help make the institution's library better known to those who support it." National Library Week has been endorsed by the American Library Association for over 30 years.

This year the Mary Livermore Library will sponsor several special promotions and events. They include fine-free week (no fines will be charged on overdue books), a reading program, recognition of campus authors, a special censorship exhibit, a hot dog sale, and a book sale. Additional information about these special activities is contained in related articles on this page.

Everyone is invited to come by the library and get involved in National Library Week, when the library staff will be "reaching out" to the campus, in accord with the theme "Reach for the World."

National Library Week Book Sale

A popular feature of National Library Week 1991, a used book sale, will be repeated in 1992. The sale will be held in the bibliographic instruction room on the second floor of the Mary Livermore Library from Monday, April 6, through Saturday, April 11. Purchases made at the sale will enable anyone to own useful and entertaining books at very low prices. Prices are 50¢ for hard-back books and 25¢ for paper-bound materials, including some periodicals. A special feature of the sale will be a silent auction for selected reference materials and sets of books.

Offered for sale will be some materials no longer useful to library patrons as well as some donated items not needed for the library's collection. Proceeds from the sale of donated materials will benefit projects sponsored by the Friends of the Library. Proceeds from items purchased from State funds will revert to the State of North Carolina. Anyone wishing to donate materials to the book sale can contact any member of the library staff or telephone the library circulation desk at 521-4214, ext. 4516, for more information.

Hours of the book sale are as follows: Monday, 2-8 p.m. (open to members of the Friends of the Library only); Tuesday, 10 a.m.-1:30 p.m.; Wednesday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday, 2-5 p.m.; Friday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.; and Saturday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

Author Recognition Activities Planned During National Library Week

Campus authors of original works of creative and scholarly writing will be honored at the third annual National Library Week Reading and Reception program sponsored by the Mary Livermore Library. The reading program and ensuing reception will be held Tuesday, April 7, beginning at 3:00 p.m. in the Native American Resource Center in the Old Main Building.

The reading program will feature PSU faculty, staff, and students reading original works of creative writing. At press time applications for participation had been sent to all academic departments and other offices on campus, and information was posted in the library. Former participants who had at press time indicated an interest in appearing on this year's reading program included students Tony Rex Chavis and William Bryan Jennings, II; staff member Hope Sheppard; and faculty members Dr. Mary Boyles, Dr. Stanley Knick, and Dana Washington, as well as the award-winning poet, editor of Pembroke Magazine, and teacher of creative writing, Dr. Shelby Stephenson. Another teacher of creative writing, Jack Cook, has also indicated an interest in appearing at this year's reading program. Mr. Cook teaches part-time at PSU and is on the faculty of Robeson Community College, where he was recently named "Teacher of the Year."

Following the reading program, a reception honoring the readers and campus authors of creative and scholarly works published between March 1991 and March 1992 will be held. To begin about 4:00 p.m., the reception is sponsored by the Friends of the Library of Pembroke State University.

The Reading and Reception program is free and open to the public. So as to permit the library staff to participate in this highlight of the celebration of National Library Week, the library will be closed April 7 between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 p.m.

Hot Dog Sale

A special food treat will be part of the celebration of National Library Week by the Mary Livermore Library. The Friends of the Library Committee of the library staff is sponsoring a hot dog sale Thursday, April 9, from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. According to the FOL Committee Chairperson Banessa Hunt, hot dogs with all the trimmings, including homemade chili, as well as soft drinks and chips, will be available. Hot dogs will go for the bargain price of two for $1.00.

An added feature of the hot dog sale will be the "surprise cups." Lucky purchasers of specially marked soft drink cups will win a free prize.

The hot dog lunch will be held on the lawn at the rear of the library, near the basketball and tennis courts. Everyone is invited to attend.

SPECIAL At The Library EVENTS

Women Writers Conference Held At The Livermore Library

Mary Livermore Library was host site for one of several "Write for Your Life" workshops held throughout the state in preparation for the North Carolina Women Writers Conference held in Winston-Salem March 13-15.

Coordinator of the workshop held at the Livermore Library February 17-20, which was co-sponsored by the Friends of the Library of Pembroke State University, was Robeson County author and President of the Friends of the Library of PSU, Barbara Brayboy-Locklear.

Participants in the workshop included several generations of women and girls who wrote about their experiences and shared them with the group. By participating in the local "Write for Your Life" workshop, the writers became eligible to attend the state conference, the theme of which was "North Carolina Women Writers: Making the Difference."

At the state conference, a portrait of Ms. Brayboy-Locklear and 31 other women authors painted by Anne Kesler Shields was unveiled at Salem College March 13. Ms. Brayboy-Locklear also participated in a panel discussion during the conference. A Pembroke State University faculty member, Linda Oxendine, Chair of the American Indian Studies Department, also participated in the conference by introducing the keynote speaker, actress Doris Leader Charge.

New Books In Livermore Library

Livermore Library, at the request of the Art Department, has acquired The Sistine Chapel, published by Alfred A. Knopf in 1991. This is the limited edition of 2500 copies, with the library's being number 494. It arrived as a boxed set, but the box was badly damaged during transit. This delayed the set from becoming available for public use for several weeks while the publisher sent us a new box.

The set is a radiant collection of Michelangelo's murals on the Sistine Chapel ceiling, one of the greatest works of art in Western history. The work, started in 1509 by the 33-year-old Florentine artist, was finally restored in 1989. The book documents the restoration of the Sistine Chapel with the photographs of Takashi Okamura. Michelangelo puts new perspective on the ancient medium of fresco, using an 8070-square-foot ceiling as his canvas. There are several foldout pages which reveal details of the ceiling frescos. It is worth the time to come to the library to see and study these gorgeous photos of the artwork.

Due to the expense of this item, the volumes are housed in the special collections room, or "Cage," and may only be used in the library. Everyone is encouraged to examine this magnificent book.

The Sonnet In Performance: A Celebration

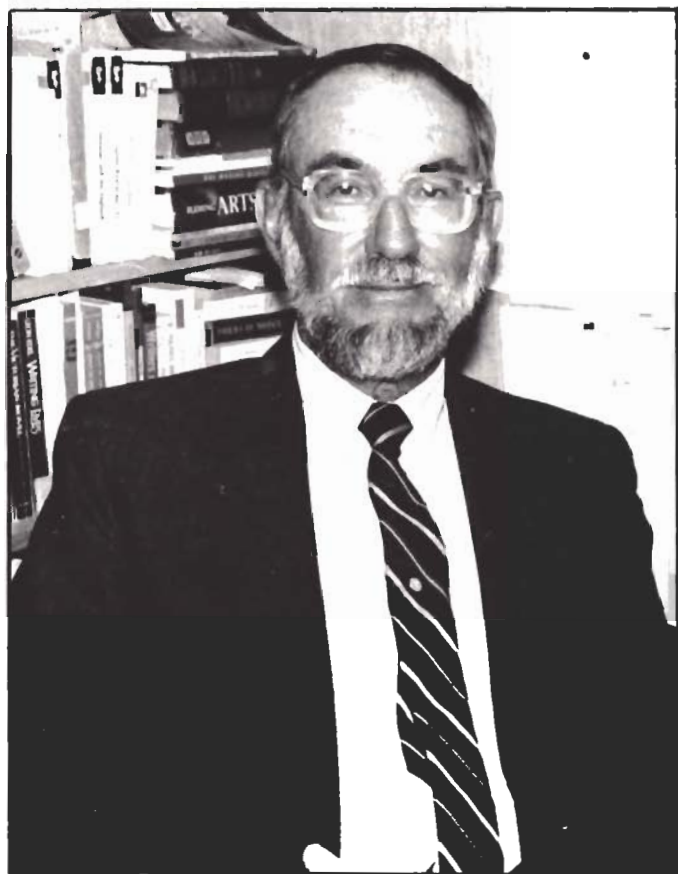

Elizabeth McIntyre and Marc Whisnant performing the sonnets "To A Fish" and "A Fish Answers."

The Friends of the Library of Pembroke State University sponsored a poetry recital in Moore Hall Auditorium on November 13, 1991. The purpose of the program, entitled "The Sonnet in Performance: A Celebration," was to present sonnets so as to give the audience a feel of this type of poetry as a literary form and give the community some insight into the Friends of the Library. Various faculty, staff and students took part in the recital. A total of 25 participants recited, and in some cases, performed sonnets by adding accentuation and gestures, even costumes and music. The sonnets included a variety ranging from Francesco Petrararch's "The Long Love that in My Thought Doth Harbor" to Percy Shelley's "Ozymadias" to Archibald MacLeish's "The End of the World." Some of the participants in the program included Dr. Joseph Oxendine, Drs. Patrick and Suellen Cabe, and Dr. Richard Pisano. It was reported that this was the first event of its kind at Pembroke State University. The program was described in reaction papers prepared by students who attended as enjoyable and insightful.

The recital also served as a membership campaign for the Friends of the Library. Mrs. Barbara Brayboy-Locklear, President of the Friends of the Library, stated that the recital was a major accomplishment, and that the membership in the organization had more than doubled in its first year of operation. The idea for the recital came from Dr. Raymond Rundus, CMA Professor of English and Vice President/President Elect of the Friends of the Library.

The program was so well received that plans are underway for a followup program, or "Son of Sonnet," as Dr. Rundus has humorously described the second sonnet program. It will be held in the fall of 1992. Details will be contained in the next issue of Library Lines.

Dr. Raymond J. Rundus, creative genius for "The Sonnet in Performance — A Celebration."

First Annual Friends Banquet Slated

The conclusion of an outstanding year of activity by the Friends of the Library organization of Pembroke State University will be marked by a special event, the first annual banquet. The dinner and program will be held in the Chancellor's Dining Room beginning at 6:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 23.

Following a filet mignon dinner will be a program of entertainment which will be of interest to lovers of music, poetry, Pembroke State University, and UNC-Chapel Hill. Providing a combination of literary and musical entertainment will be PSU professor and poet Dr. Shelby Stephenson and his wife, Linda. Providing sentimental and amusing anecdotes about campus and library events at Chapel Hill will be University Librarian Dr. James Govan, who will be retiring in June after 19 years of service at Wilson and Davis Libraries.

Dr. Shelby Stephenson joined the faculty of Pembroke State University in 1978. Professor in the Communicative Arts Department and editor of Pembroke Magazine, Dr. Stephenson is an award-winning poet who has evidenced his support of library Friends groups by performing for events such as the PSU banquet on several occasions. He holds the Ph.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin at Madison. Linda Stephenson, a native of Buffalo, New York, is an editor, a talented musician, and has a background in rehabilitation therapy.

Dr. James Govan, who is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, holds the Ph.D. in History from The Johns Hopkins University and the M.A. in Librarianship from Emory University. He is a talented and humorous speaker who will share reminiscences about his years at Carolina that will include references to people and events of interest to all who have been associated with the flagship institution of the University of North Carolina. Dr. Govan visited the Pembroke

Dr. James Govan

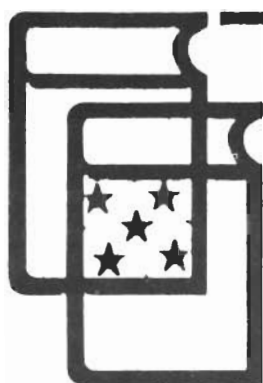

State University campus for several days in 1980 in a professional capacity and is likely to make some references to our unit of the University system also.

Reservations for the steak dinner and program can be made by contacting Elinor Bridges or Gwendolyn Locklear at the Mary Livermore Library (521-4214, ext. 4212) by April 17. Information about the event will be mailed to all Friends of the Library. Friends members who have contributed $50.00 or more during the past year (1991-1992) will be eligible for one complimentary dinner but must confirm by making a reservation. The charge for other members attending the program is $12.00. Persons not yet associated with the Friends of the Library or those members whose membership has not been renewed within the past year are invited to attend the banquet and program by paying the minimum membership fee of $2.00 for students or $5.00 for others, plus the cost of the dinner.

Presiding over the event will be 1991-92 President of the Friends of the Library of Pembroke State University, Barbara Brayboy-Locklear, and Vice President/President-Elect Dr. Raymond Rundus.

Since the Friends of the Mary Livermore Library was reactivated in 1990, we have had a total of 271 members to join.

To date, approximately $5,500.00 have been contributed. Because some members have not renewed, current membership now stands at 229. 100% of the library staff are members.

Friends
of Libraries
U.S.A.

It is a pleasure to write this first column of the first issue of Library Lines. During the past year The Friends of the Library of Pembroke State University organization has worked to draw more friends and alumni into its circle of supporters.

What a difference a year makes ... certainly in the case of The Friends of the Library. The organization, founded by the late Dr. Robert Hersch, is alive and well. During the 1991-92 fiscal year, the membership of the decade-old organization more than doubled with the many members donating over $5,000.

Particularly gratifying has been the support of my fellow officers, Mary Livermore Library staff and community in making the year a successful one during my tenure as president of the organization.

The year brought not only new members to the circle, but also new literary consciousness to the campus and community. There were "Friends" programs which retained and developed alumni and community interest. A fall literary program, "The Sonnet In Performance: A Celebration," brought critical acclaim to the PSU campus like none before seen. The program rendered by faculty, administration, staff, students and community people served as a vehicle ushering an awareness in the community of the organization and its sponsored programs and activities. I am very excited that another such program is planned for this fall. Personal applause goes to Dr. Raymond Rundus for spearheading the successful literary program last fall.

I am continuously grateful to PSU's Director of Library Services, Dr. Elinor Bridges, for her ongoing assurance that Mary Livermore Library takes its public responsibility seriously; and to her encouragement of community participation in, and usage of, library services and resources.

I am especially proud that the "Friends" organization has involved itself in co-sponsoring community-related programs during the past year. This further shows the organization's commitment to purpose in promoting cultural advancement and the development of resources available to the University, the community surrounding it and the State of North Carolina.

A Message From The President

Barbara Brayboy-Locklear

The final months of my term as president will bring both a spring literary program and a banquet which will recognize another year of the fast-growing "Friends" organization. I look forward to both celebrations with deep gratitude for the support of all the many Friends of the Library. For it is because of that support, and the foresight of a man who planted a little nut ten years ago at PSU, that we are able to envision a mighty oak in the form of The Friends of the Library of Pembroke State University.

What a difference a year makes.

Barbara Brayboy-Locklear
