Political Science is the systematic study of politics. In its broadest sense, politics includes the decision-making and decision-enforcing processes concerned with the use of valued resources for any group that makes and enforces rules for its members. In this department the emphasis is upon the parts of these processes involving the government.

The Department of Political Science seeks to follow the aims of the liberal arts tradition. It also seeks to provide political science and public administration students with an educational background that will prepare them for a wide range of career opportunities and that are expected by prospective employers from the fields of Law, Foreign Service, Public Administration, Journalism, “Practical Politics,” and Teaching.

The Department also offers the Master of Public Administration (M.P.A.) degree with concentrations in Public Management, Criminal Justice, Emergency Management, and Health Administration. For complete information about programs and courses, see the School of Graduate Studies section of the catalog.

While both PLS 2060 and PLS 2070 can be taken up to four times each, they only count once each for the purpose of major fulfillment.

ACADEMIC CONCENTRATION

Academic Concentration in Political Science: (28 Hours)
For students seeking a baccalaureate degree in Elementary Education, Special Education, or Physical Education, the Political Science Department offers an Academic Concentration of 28 hours. This Academic Concentration is available to other students, regardless of major.
Requirements:
PLS 1000, 1010, 2000, 2170, 2330, 2510;
Any three additional courses in political science with at least one at the 3000 or 4000 level.

MINORS

Legal Studies Minor: (18 Hours)
The minor in legal studies is designed to accommodate the student who is majoring in some other discipline and also quite interested in going to law school and pursuing a legal career. This allows the student to concentrate in a particular area of expertise within which he or she plans to specialize once the student begins to practice law. Rather than require the student to major in political science, the minor in Legal Studies gives the student more flexibility to pursue other interests while receiving a sound preparation for law school study.
Requirements:
PLS 1000, 1010, 2170, 3100, 3110, 3120

General Political Science Minor: (19 Hours)
This minor is less structured because the department wishes to accommodate the student who enjoys political science, but who does not wish to pursue a major because of other career or vocational goals. The department wishes to encourage the student to take an “eclectic” approach and enroll in courses that discuss topics of interest to the student so that the individual needs of the student will be better met.
Requirements:
PLS 1000, 1010, 2000, 2330
and any two additional 3000- or 4000-level Political Science courses.
Public Administration Minor: (19 Hours)

Many students would benefit from a structured set of courses outlining the operations and problems of the administrator of a public agency. Even if the student never seeks employment as public administrator, the department believes that exposure to these courses within the public administration minor will help the student to perform their private sector administration roles more capably, especially since the growth of government has created numerous points of contact between public sector and private sector administrators.

Requirements:

PAD 1000, 2010, 2100, 2190, 2330; One other PAD course at the 3000 or 4000 level.

The Department participates in two interdepartmental minors: Personnel and Organizational Leadership and World Studies. For further details, see Special Programs section.
