FOL Scholarship Efforts Realized
by Susan F. Whitt

Over the past years you have read articles and updates concerning the activities of the Friends of the Library of The University of North Carolina at Pembroke. One major initiative of the Friends has been realized. Thanks to the success of the Friends of the Library’s past three annual benefits, three new categories of scholarships are now available to UNCP students. The Board of Directors at their December 2003 meeting established scholarships totaling $7,000 to be awarded in the spring of 2005. An endowed scholarship of $5,000, a $1,000 non-endowed scholarship, and four $250 book scholarships were funded. The current Board of Directors has been working on preparing scholarship application forms and finalizing other issues in awarding these scholarships.

Officers for the 2004-05 academic year are President, Helen Pate; Vice President/President-elect, Dr. Nancy Barrineau; Secretary, Nickie Blanton; and Treasurer, Susan Whitt.

The Friends of the Library Endowed Scholarship is intended to assist at least one UNCP Honors College student per year, depending upon fund availability due to accrued interest. Candidates must be full-time undergraduates in the sophomore, junior, or senior year of study at UNCP, possess a 3.0 minimum GPA, and not be a recipient of a merit scholarship. Candidates may pursue a degree in any major and do not have to show financial need. The award will be $250 per student per award. The application deadline for this scholarship is March 1 for the Fall Semester and November 1 for the Spring Semester.

The Friends of the Library Scholarship is a non-endowed fund established to assist one or two undergraduate students per year at UNCP, depending upon fund availability. The purpose of this fund is to provide financial assistance with tuition and fees. Candidates for consideration must be full-time undergraduates in the sophomore, junior, or senior year of study at UNCP with a 3.0 minimum GPA. Candidates may pursue a degree in any major and must demonstrate financial need. When awarded, the award will be $500 per semester or a single semester award of $1,000 per school year. The application deadline for this scholarship is March 1 for the Fall Semester and November 1 for the Spring Semester.

Message from the University Librarian

Thanks to all our special supporters, members of the Friends of the Library, and those who attend Friends benefit events, the Sampson-Livermore Library is able to assist several students with tuition and book expenses, beginning in the fall of 2005 (see related scholarship article, p. 1). Other projects the Friends finance include speaker honoraria and receptions for faculty, visiting authors, and winners of the Poetry/Short Prose contest. The Friends also provide cash awards for the winners of the contest, as is mentioned in the article and insert about the upcoming contest.

Other projects sponsored by the Friends of the Library include the acquisition of additions to Special Collections and artwork related to area history and culture. Pending Board approval are the funding of a popular reading, viewing, and listening materials rental program and front plaza furniture. All of these projects would not be possible without our Friends of the Library support group.

Information about the 2004-05 leadership for the Friends of the Library of UNC Pembroke is contained in the cover article. I would like to applaud the members of the Board of Directors and to express special appreciation to departing Board member Dr. Nancy Barrineau, who has served a number of years and now needs to turn her attention to other projects. Thanks, Nancy, and all our other Sampson-Livermore Library Friends.

Message from the FOL President

Hello again. At this writing Thanksgiving has passed and we are definitely into the holiday season … busy shopping and getting ready for family and friends. What a great opportunity to thank you and praise you, members of FOL, for the financial support you have given the UNCP Library. This allows us to now offer scholarships, both tuition and book, to our growing student enrollment, as well as many interesting programs presented here on campus. These programs are for you and all of the surrounding areas, as well as the students. If you are not a member as yet, please consider becoming one. Your support helps provide educational opportunities.

This has been a busy semester for the Sampson-Livermore Library staff and FOL board. I mentioned earlier the informative programs that the UNCP library has hosted this fall. Our thanks to those who have organized and implemented the presentations. It would be even better if more of our members attended and took advantage of the free educational opportunities held here at the University. We are very fortunate to have so many North Carolina authors and artists available who are willing to come and share their expertise. Please make an effort to attend these functions. You will be the benefactor!

As we enter the Christmas season, let us each remember the reason we are celebrating. We are so very blessed to be free, not only to worship as we please but we have the right of free speech and freedom of the press … very simple and basic to us in America, but not so in many countries of the world. That leads us to think of our armed forces who are overseas this holiday season, fighting for us and to give other peoples of the world some of these basic rights. Let us not forget who we are and for what we stand.

Happy Holidays,
Helen Pate
Access Services Continues to Grow
by June L. Power

This has been a busy year for Access Services. We have implemented some new projects and continued providing prompt, efficient, and courteous service to the average 387 patrons who entered the Library’s door daily. Changes have occurred in all areas of Access Services – interlibrary loan, circulation, and course reserves.

Interlibrary Loan Services (ILS) is undergoing a great deal of growth. One major change in interlibrary services is the decision to extend free interlibrary borrowing for faculty members in support of their research. In addition to accepting unlimited free faculty interlibrary borrowing requests, the Library will now also cover the charges for other interlibrary borrowing requests. The Library will obtain up to 10 requests that incur a charge for faculty. After those 10 requests, Dr. Elinor Foster, University Librarian, must approve additional requests incurring charges.

To facilitate resource borrowing for the University’s four-year nursing program, DocLine, an interlibrary loan software specifically oriented for the health sciences, was added to our ILS capabilities. This new system will provide more options for obtaining needed resources for library patrons.

Circulation staff welcomed a reprieve from the manual keying of new and updated patron records when Access Services received its first automatic patron load at the beginning of the semester. The process of inputting these records was automated in conjunction with Systems Librarian Cindy Saylor, Executive Director of University Computing and Information Services Tom Jackson, and UNC Wilmington Associate University Librarian for Computing Services Dan Pfohl. Access Services now receives an electronic file periodically of data extracted from the Registrar’s Student Information System. This file includes all the necessary data to create patron records for new students and provides updated information for returning students. A process that once took many days to complete can now be accomplished in a matter of minutes, thus allowing circulation staff to focus on service activities.

Staff time is also saved with our new course reserves software system. The Library has recently purchased and installed Docutek’s ERes software. This software has increased functionality, especially with the ability to track copyright for compliance. This system also has increased user-friendliness with its simple, intuitive, yet powerful interface. Printing issues associated with technological incompatibilities between the printing system and the previous course reserves software are also resolved by the acquisition of this new software. When the library system is unavailable, course reserves will still be accessible because the new system is web-based.

Service to library patrons is also influenced by changes in campus services. The Braves One Card office changed their card format over the summer to increase cardholders’ privacy. Instead of having a barcode printed on the front of the card, patron information is now encoded in a magnetic strip on the back of the card. These cards are used in the Library in order to make photocopies and to print from the Library’s public access computers. Any library patrons who still have cards pre-dating summer 2004 should have their cards replaced. The Braves One Card office issues student, faculty, and staff cards. Print cards for community and cooperative borrowers may be purchased at the Circulation Desk for $3. The value of the copies on the card is $1.

Future developments in Access Services include providing patrons with courtesy notices via e-mail and the expansion of wireless laptop services (see related wireless laptop article, p. 4).
Library Expands Platforms and Increases Access to Wireless Laptops

by Cynthia E. Saylor

Beginning in January 2005, the Sampson-Livermore Library will offer access to 20 additional wireless networked laptops for library use. Fifteen HP nc6000 Business Notebooks and five Macintosh iBooks will be available for borrowing by university patrons for use within the Library. This new service is in response to the expanding need for access to information and software availabilities without the constraints of having to remain in a particular location within the Library.

Offering a sleek design and high performance, the HP Notebooks run Windows XP and are equipped with a Pentium M processor, a 14" TFT display, a 30GB hard drive, and a CD/DVD-RW combo drive. Two USB ports are available for peripherals, such as one of the Library’s available floppy disk drives or other external storage. Each laptop has headphones, a power cord, and a carry bag. Software on the notebooks includes the Microsoft Office Suite, both Internet Explorer and Netscape for navigating the Internet, Acrobat Reader to facilitate reading portable document format (pdf) items, as well as Roxio and InterVideo WinDVD Creator for burning media.

Even sleeker and more powerful, the Macintosh iBooks have a G4 processor, a 14" TFT display, a 60GB hard drive, and a CD/DVD Superdrive. A firewire port and two USB ports are available for peripherals. The iBooks, which may be borrowed by authorized users only, offer AppleWorks, Keynote, and additional graphic art, music, and video production software. Each laptop has headphones, a power cord, and a carry bag. Only UNCP students, faculty, and staff are eligible for authorized use. Dr. John Labadie of the Art Department supervises the training for this authorization.

University patrons may access their University accounts and download their work through the file transfer protocol (ftp). Software on the laptops allows users to save items during their sessions, but erases all saved items or any changes to the laptop when the computer is shutdown and restarted. Printing is available from the HP Notebooks to either of the print workstations via Pharos Uni-Print, the Library’s new pay-for-print management system. Scanning and printing are available for the iBooks via a docking station in Multimedia Room 204.

Only current UNCP students, faculty, and staff are eligible to check out the laptops, and the Laptop Computer Loan Agreement must be signed each time a laptop is borrowed. Laptops are borrowed at the Circulation Desk and circulate for two-hour increments within the Library. Laptops may be renewed if availability allows. Rental charges for late returns, as well as liabilities and limitations on use, apply. View a copy of the Laptop Computer Loan Agreement and the Laptop Computer Circulation Policies at http://www.uncp.edu/library/manual/L/L.12.8-Exhibit.doc.

New or Improved Databases Now Available at the Library

by Barbara A. Gushrowski

Let’s get down to ‘Business’

Students and faculty in the School of Business can now access two online resources never before available at this campus. EconLit and Mergent Online are the two newest electronic resources licensed by the Sampson-Livermore Library. Both resources rate high in the quality of content and ease of use.

EconLit, produced by the American Economics Association, contains abstracts and indexing to journal articles in leading economics journals, as well as abstracts of books, working papers series, and dissertations. EconLit also provides the full-text of Journal of Economic Literature book reviews.

Mergent Online provides detailed and comprehensive information on United States and International companies. Users are able to search by company name, ticker symbol, financial criteria, or any number of free-text search criteria. Using the results of the search, users can generate a customized company analysis report. Mergent Online will surely become one of the most-used resources for our growing business and management programs.

A new look for two favorites

The Library constantly strives to provide high quality information resources that are easy to use. As a result, two of our popular databases have gotten a new look. PAIS International (Public Affairs Information Service) and SPORT Discus are now available through the EbscoHost interface. Users will have access to all of the same great information, but with the familiar look and ease of use of the EbscoHost interface.
Writing Contest To Be Held Again

by Jean E. Sexton

The Friends of the Library of Sampson-Livermore Library are pleased to announce the annual Poetry/Short Prose Contest will be held again this year. This contest, now in its sixth year, has proved to be a very popular event. First place winners will receive $250; second place, $150; and third place, $100.

The application form is included in this newsletter, and a link is included from the Library’s website (http://www.uncp.edu/library). The deadline for submission of entries is February 28, 2005. Useful tips for writers include the following:

- Type your entries or print them from a computer. Entries written by hand never get to the judges.
- Count the words in your entry (not including the title). If it has 501 words or more, it will be discarded and the judges will never see your entry.
- Fill out the entry form completely. If we cannot contact you, you cannot win. If you are a high school student, make sure that your high school’s name is included.
- Submit your entry to be received before the deadline. We will not accept late entries, except in case of snow. If schools close due to snow, we will accept mail postmarked on the first day the public schools in Robeson and surrounding counties are open after February 28, 2005.
- Check to make sure you do not have spelling and/or grammatical errors. It can be helpful to read the work to a friend. Grammatical and/or spelling mistakes negatively affect the judges’ scoring.
- Fill out the entry form, not the poetry or prose. We code each entry and the entry form to determine the author of the piece. Signed entries will be discarded.
- If you submit more than one entry, the very first one opened that meets all the criteria will be kept. All other entries will be discarded.
- If you choose to use graphics, check to see how they will look in black and white. Judges make their decisions from photocopies of the original entries. If it is difficult to read your entry, it probably will not win.

The Friends strongly encourage our local supporters, faculty, and staff to enter the “General” category and also encourage high school and University students to submit entries. This contest grows in stature each year due to the increasing number of well-written entries that are submitted. Help us continue the tradition by participating and encouraging others to participate.

The Friends of the Library Book Scholarship is a non-endowed fund to assist one or more students per year at UNCP, depending upon fund availability. The purpose of this fund is to provide financial assistance with textbooks and/or course related materials. Candidates must be full-time or part-time undergraduate students or graduate students in any year of study at UNCP meeting a 3.0 minimum GPA. Candidates may pursue a degree in any major and must demonstrate financial need. The award will be $250 per student per award. The application deadline for this scholarship is the tenth class day of the Fall and Spring Semesters and the third class day of the summer sessions.

Applications for these scholarships are available at the Library and on the Library’s webpage. Questions about the scholarship awards made available by the Friends of the Library may be directed to the library administrative office by calling 910-521-6212. All eligible students are encouraged to apply for these scholarships.

The Friends appreciate the generosity of all who have contributed to our benefits, become members of the organization, and contributed in any way to the efforts of our endeavors. Thanks to your generosity we have realized a goal that will positively affect the students of our University. It is an exciting time to be a Friend.

Plans are underway for “Night of Stars @the Library,” our fourth annual benefit, to be held April 8, 2005. We are excited to have Clyde Edgerton as our featured speaker and entertainer. You may have read one of his novels or seen him on UNC-TV’s “North Carolina Bookwatch.”

We are diligently seeking celebrity-signed memorabilia to be featured in a silent auction preceding dinner and entertainment. Received already are autographed items from over 71 celebrities including Tiger Woods, Vin Diesel, Kyle Petty, Chubby Checker, Tom Brokow, Maria Shriver, Neil Simon, Joan Baez, Donald Trump, Iris Johansen, Sophia Loren, Danielle Steel, Denzel Washington, Jimmy Buffet, Neil Diamond, Tim McGraw, Tami Hoag, and Sandra Brown.

A variety of other enticements such as pottery and artwork will be available as silent auction offerings, and we will also feature a live auction of very special items. Our 2004 benefit brought in over $13,000 for initiatives of the Friends. We hope to top our figure again this year, as we have consecutively in the past three years. Watch for benefit updates in the coming months and plan to join us for a “Night of Stars @the Library.”
Friends of the Library Sponsor Outstanding Programs
by June Mills

The Friends of the Library of The University of North Carolina at Pembroke is a growing organization that provides our community with educational resources and cultural activities. The Friends presented four such programs recently.

On December 9, 2004, Dr. Barbara Hammonds, a Lumberton native, spoke on her new book, 50 Poems. Dr. Hammonds wrote the book between 1994 and 2004 as she healed from traumatic and chronic injuries received from an accident. Her positive and insightful writing made this a truly inspirational program for those who attended. Dr. Hammonds is working on a new novel, Tea with Brie, which should be published in 2005. The program was co-sponsored with the Robeson County Public Library.

Two UNCP professors provided information, insight, and expertise in their respective fields of research on November 30, 2004, in the Thomas Assembly Room of the Native American Resource Center.

Dr. Patricia Valenti, Professor of English, Theater and Languages, discussed her new book, Sophia Peabody Hawthorne: A Life, Volume 1, 1809-1847. A scholar of the family of early American writer Nathaniel Hawthorne, Dr. Valenti wrote this volume as the first of a two-part biography of Hawthorne’s wife. In her presentation, Dr. Valenti detailed how Hawthorne and his writings were influenced by his wife’s independence and own writings, as well as how their daughter influenced the character of Pearl in The Scarlet Letter.

Dr. Valenti is the recipient of the UNC Board of Governors 2004 Award for Teaching Excellence. Other books written by Dr. Valenti include To Myself A Stranger: A Biography Of Rose Hawthorne Lathrop and Understanding The Old Man And The Sea: A Student Casebook To Issues, Sources, and Historical Documents.

Dr. Stephen Berry, Assistant Professor, Department of History and historian, discussed his new book, All That Make A Man: Love And Ambition In The Civil War South. Based on the letters of six Confederate officers, the book offers an in-depth look into why men went to war. Dr. Berry read excerpts from the letters and provided anecdotal details of the love and ambition felt by these men. Dr. Berry researched his book in the Southern Historical Collection at UNC Chapel Hill.

North Carolina native and lighthouse historian Cheryl Shelton-Roberts and nationally acclaimed photographer Bruce Roberts presented “Lighthouses of North Carolina: Their Past, Present and Future” on November 1, 2004. Ms. Shelton-Roberts is the editor of Hatteras Keepers Oral and Family Histories and the author of Lighthouse Families. Mr. Roberts was the first director of photography for Southern Living magazine. His reminiscent images of lighthouses have appeared in many books and publications, including Our State, Time, Life, Southern Lighthouses, and American Lighthouses. Together they produced the book North Carolina Lighthouses: A Tribute of History and Hope.

Shining the Light on Student Workers
by Barbara A. Gushrowski

The Sampson-Livermore Library is fortunate to have students who have chosen to work here during their time at UNCP. We are so proud of their accomplishments and the wonderful service they provide to the Library and to its patrons we wanted to introduce them to you and exercise our bragging rights!

Our patrons soon become familiar with the student workers working at the Circulation, Reference, and Periodicals Desks. The majority of our student workers spend part of their day at a service desk and assist with circulating materials, answering directional reference questions, and preparing periodicals for shelving. Many of our student workers are just beginning their academic careers and this is their first semester working in the Library, but several have worked here three or more semesters – there must be something that keeps them coming back.

Ron Emanuel is a junior majoring in accounting and is in his third year working at the Library. He wants to become a CPA following graduation and is currently a member of the Accounting Students Association. Ron is the recipient of several awards including Honor Society Nominee, North Carolina Native American Incentive Scholarship, and National Who’s Who of America Nominee. For Ron the most surprising thing he has learned about libraries is, “Libraries have tons of information, resources, and helpful librarians, but many people still do not take advantage of these opportunities.”

Ian Hairston is a sophomore majoring in theater and has spent three semesters working at the Library. He plans to move to Atlanta following graduation to pursue a career in the theater. Ian says his favorite thing about working in the Library is “being able to tell people that I spend two hours in the Library every Monday – Thursday.” And he was most surprised to find “that there is a lot more to running a library than I thought.”

Joshua Deese is a junior majoring in physical education. Joshua began his service to the Library three semesters ago and plans to work and attend graduate school following graduation. Joshua enjoys seeing and meeting all types of interesting people during his time at the Library and says, “I never knew that there were so many books on so many topics until I started working here.”

Byron Locklear is a junior majoring in bio-med chemistry. His after-graduation plans include working with Emergency Management Service for a year and then attending a physician’s assistant program. Byron has been the recipient of a North Carolina Native American Incentive Scholarship and is on the A-Honor Roll. His favorite things about working in the Library are “easy access to all different types of resources, and the ability to communicate with a diverse group of people.”

Andrew Krous is a freshman majoring in music, and this is his first semester working in the Library. Andrew’s post-graduate plans are ambitious and include becoming a rock star, performing and recording, and/or getting into the artist management side of the music business. He has enjoyed learning about the Library’s computer system and the book-shelving system.

Ebony Goins is a freshman majoring in English education and is another first-semester library worker. She plans to teach ninth grade English in a public school following graduation. Ebony’s favorite part of her job is “the library staff is very friendly and makes me feel welcome here.” But she was surprised to learn about “the complex systems they have for keeping up with the books, magazines, etc.”

Willie Slaughter is a freshman with an interest in corporate law and in being contracted in the Air Force ROTC program. Willie has been awarded grants to pursue his education here at UNCP and hopes to maintain a high grade point average and be named to the Chancellor’s List. Willie enjoys re-shelving the returned library materials and was most surprised to find that “the librarians are real nice and treat people wonderfully . . . ”

Camron Rawls is a sophomore majoring in broadcasting and mass communication. He plans to be a broadcaster or work behind the scenes as a new show producer following completion of his degree. This is Camron’s first semester working at
by Anne Coleman

Delois Williams joined the library staff on January 3, 2005, as the Library Assistant for Media Cataloging. She will be assisting with the processing and cataloging of media and electronic resources.

Delois was born in Elizabethtown, North Carolina, but has spent most of her life in Bladenboro, North Carolina. According to Delois, “Bladenboro is a small town where you know all your neighbors by name and the kind of community where the ‘village’ takes a part in raising all the children.”

Delois currently resides in Bladenboro with her children and parents. She has two children. Her daughter, Anya D. Williams, is a senior at West Bladen High School, and her son, André R. Williams, is a freshman at West Bladen. She feels blessed that her 86-year-old father, Eugene Hines, and her 75-year-old mother, Annie Hines, are healthy, active senior citizens in the community and still adore their baby girl, Delois.

Delois is a graduate of UNC Pembroke. She has a Bachelor of Science in biology. After receiving her degree, Delois returned to UNCP to pursue a teaching certificate. With the exception of one semester of student teaching, she has completed all of the course requirements for certification in Birth to Kindergarten education.

Delois has a variety of avocational interests. In her spare time, she loves to read and listen to music, especially gospel. She really enjoys outdoor activities such as biking, hiking, and fishing. She likes watching television shows like Seinfeld, Andy Griffith, and old westerns. She prefers reading religious, psychological, or romance books. She also enjoys teaching Bible studies at her local church. Her favorite type of food is Chinese.

Delois’ personal motto is “I am, I can, I will” because she knows that all things are possible if you believe.

Several library staff members have achieved special recognitions, honors, and accomplishments during the 2004 Fall Semester.

On August 1, 2004, June Mills received a reclassification to Library Technical Assistant for Technical Services. June has worked at the Library over seven years. Her duties include assisting with the cataloging, processing, and maintenance of library resources. She maintains the records for best sellers and bindery items, keeps internal statistics on cataloged materials, and supervises student assistants. With the upgraded position, she maintains an internal, online spreadsheet, CatStats, in which she records and tabulates the statistics of library acquisitions in the individual subject areas. These statistics will be very useful for collection development.

In November 2004, during the North Carolina Library Association Centennial Conference, Systems Librarian Cindy Saylor and Serials Librarian Barb Gushrowski were invited by the Technology and Trends Roundtable to present a reprise of their March 2004 UNC Teaching and Learning with Technology panel discussion entitled “Counting Uses and Using Counts.”

Cindy outlined the efforts of the Sampson-Livermore Library staff over the past year to evaluate use of the Library’s current electronic resources.

Barb presented an overview of several national and international efforts to standardize electronic resources usage reporting. In addition, Barb served on the NCLA Centennial Conference History Committee during preparations for the conference.

See Milestones, Page 11
the Library. He has most enjoyed meeting new people and was surprised to learn about libraries that “it is hard work running one.”

Ashley Locklear is a sophomore majoring in biology and chemistry. She plans to further her studies after graduation and work in the field of medicine. Ashley has been the recipient of a North Carolina Native American Incentive Scholarship. The most surprising thing she has learned since working here is that library work “ . . . is not a boring job and there is always something to do.” Ashley has most enjoyed meeting people during her time here.

Varicy Johnson is a freshman majoring in athletic training and has worked in the Library since October. He enjoys any kind of athletic activity in his spare time and has been most surprised to learn “that there is a book on every single, little, thing. It's crazy!”

Tony L. Garrett II started work in the Library in November. He is majoring in art and plans to attend graduate school following completion of his undergraduate degree. Tony likes the relaxing environment of the Library and was surprised to discover the librarians “are not the stereotypical prudes you see on T.V.”

Candice Gooch is a senior majoring in English and philosophy and religion and has worked in Reference Services for nearly three years. She plans to attend graduate school to continue her study of literature. Candice has been awarded the John Green Memorial Scholarship, is the Yearbook People editor, a member of Gamma Beta Phi and the Honors College, and was named to Who’s Who Among American College Students. Candice enjoys “ . . . absorbing all new and diverse information. . . helping others find information they need.”

John Davis is a freshman majoring in computer science and also works in Technical Services. John has been at the Library since August and found to his surprise that the librarians “can have different jobs.” He enjoys the “friendly people and easy atmosphere.”

Blair Mills is a freshman and hopes to enter the nursing program. This is her first semester at the Library, and she works in Acquisitions. After graduation, Blair wants to work as an operating room nurse or in private industry. Blair was selected to participate in the Health Careers Opportunity Program and received the Biology Award for highest achievement. She was most surprised to learn “the Library has a lot of books that are interesting. There is an endless resource world to explore and enjoy.”

This is just a brief snapshot of our outstanding student workers. The Sampson-Livermore Library staff salutes them and their achievements. They help us to continue to provide the outstanding service our patrons deserve and have come to expect. THANK YOU ALL!
Donations Being Sought for NLW Booksale

Do you have books, audiotapes, videos, CDs, and other materials that you no longer want or need? The Library is seeking donations for the Friends of the Library annual book sale to be held during National Library Week, April 10-16, 2005. Come by the Library and drop off those materials you no longer want or need. Then, visit the Library during National Library Week to browse the collection of donated items. Proceeds of donated items benefit the Friends of the Library projects. All contributions will be acknowledged with a letter that will document a tax-deductible gift, should donors request acknowledgement.

June Power, Access Services/Reference Librarian, also served on the NCLA Centennial Conference History Committee. June was the chairperson for both the Treasure Hunt and the Video Scrapbook Subcommittees.

In her capacity as chair of the Video Scrapbook Subcommittee, June formulated the idea of videotaping on-going, real-time events at the centennial conference. She and her subcommittee members utilized an informal, roving reporter approach to videotape on-site, topical interviews with conference attendees. The subcommittee then produced a powerful presentation of past, present, and future NCLA activities. The completed videotape was shown at the final session of the conference on Friday, November 12, and will become a significant historical document for the organization. June, as narrator and presenter of the tape, received a standing ovation.

June also has been asked to be a columnist for the Journal of Access Services, a peer-reviewed, quarterly publication that focuses on the basic business of providing library users with access to information. June has become the Internet Review Editor for the journal. In each issue she will write a column on a particular aspect of Access Services and recommend Internet sites that relate to the topic being discussed. Her first column will focus on copyright laws and regulations as they relate to the use and circulation of library materials.

A hurricane historian, Mr. Barnes has appeared in various productions for the History Channel, the Weather Channel, the Discovery Channel, and National Public Radio. He holds degrees from both N.C. State and Syracuse University. He has authored two books, North Carolina’s Hurricane History and Florida’s Hurricane History, and co-authored Faces from the Flood.
