Order of Business

A. Roll Call—The meeting was called to order at 3:30PM
B. Approval of Minutes—The Minutes were approved as disseminated.
C. Adoption of Agenda—The Agenda was approved as disseminated (revised version).
D. Reports from Administration
   1. Chancellor—Robin G. Cummings
A job description has been posted for the Provost Search. Dr. Cummings encouraged senators to invite qualified friends and colleagues to apply. The AVC for Enrollment search is underway. UNCP seeks a Director of Nursing. The search firm has spoken to several people and conducted preliminary interviews with a few. NC GAP and Lab School topics will be discussed at the General Faculty meeting on Friday. UNCP released an RFP to find company to help us develop our online programs. It closes on December 14, and a handful of companies have already replied. Faculty attendance at graduation is very good. Chancellor Cummings, along with chancellors of other NC Promise schools, met with Senator Berger and his Chief of Staff, Jim Blaine, last Thursday. Senator Berger spent nearly an hour with the chancellors, and communicated his commitment to the success of NC Promise. We are surrounded by community colleges who are offering free tuition for students in their county. We are concerned about the uncertainty of students who would normally enroll in Fall 2017 waiting a year until NC Promise starts. We want to increase our out-of-state student enrollment. Dr. Cummings asked the faculty senate to help retention and recruitment, asking for suggestions from the senate body structure. There will be a retreat on Monday, December 12 at COMTech to discuss enrollment—senators are invited to attend. Planning for School of Business building is going well, with good traction on fundraising.

2. Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs—Zoe Locklear

The cabinet is participating in an active shooter exercise next week. Bravebook activity is updated on website. Good progress is being made.

CHANCELLOR CUMMINGS’ NEW YEAR’S MESSAGE

#BraveNation:

Looking back over the past year, clearly the University of North Carolina at Pembroke has been blessed in many ways. As we look to the future, we are focused on establishing UNCP as an institution of choice in our state and a model regional university. But reflecting as Chancellor, I am filled with pride in how together our faculty, staff, students, alumni and friends have advanced our shared mission of changing lives through education.

From its founding 129 years ago, UNCP has focused on expanding educational access. One of our priorities since I took office in July 2015 has been continuing to grow the university’s academic opportunities to meet the changing needs of our economy and to positively position UNCP in an increasingly competitive higher education market.

With efficiency and collaboration in mind, we have leveraged our relationships with fellow universities and colleges to create new “pathways to success” for our students. The newest is a 3-plus-2 dual degree partnership with the College of Engineering at NC State. This pathway provides the opportunity to earn a bachelor’s degree in applied physics from UNCP and a bachelor’s degree in electrical or mechanical engineering from N.C. State over a five-year period. Our region needs this specialized training to supply existing businesses but especially to help attract new industry to southeastern North Carolina.

Likewise, we will announce agreements in January that will allow qualifying UNCP students to seamlessly move to careers in veterinary medicine. We continue to build upon prior student matriculation agreements with the East Carolina University Brody School of Medicine as well as the ECU Doctor of Physical Therapy program.

While we have great partners within the UNC system, we are also looking beyond our state to expand educational opportunities for UNCP. Adding to over two dozen arrangements already in place, I traveled to China in June to sign new transfer agreements with two universities in support of our renewed emphasis in our international program. Presently UNCP has 20 countries represented in our student body. Recognizing the value of a world view perspective, our goal is to increase international recruitment of students as well as to promote study abroad opportunities for our American students.

As we grow our state, national and international presence, UNCP remains solidly committed to our role as a key driver of positive change in southeastern North Carolina. Early last year, the university’s Entrepreneurship Incubator was opened in downtown Pembroke. The site selection was the vision of my predecessor, Dr. Kyle Carter, and required a seven-figure investment in the complete renovation of a 70-year-old building. New leadership has been recruited in the past months. Presently the incubator is at near capacity with clients learning from the faculty of our School of Business and the Thomas Family Center for Entrepreneurship, testing and working to grow their new business ideas. From a large company like Cisco, seeking to reach out to a specific region, to a recent UNCP graduate growing his idea of mobile, on-site, vinyl sign design, the Incubator is supporting job creation and investment across our area, from the Sandhills to the coast. New sites are planned in adjoining cities in Robeson County in the year ahead.

Regional economic development scored another win in March when voters approved the Connect NC bond. To assist in the building of a state-of-the-art facility for the School of Business, $23 million was included in the bond. Having recently achieved the distinction of full accreditation, the School of Business will continue to grow, and expand on its ability to attract top students and faculty. It will lead as a major player in driving the economic development in our region, enhancing the university’s role in not only educating our workforce but better serving employers.

In the coming year, UNCP will prepare for an opportunity to significantly elevate the university’s trajectory and enhance our ability to provide access to an affordable, quality education. Beginning in the fall of 2018, the state will buy down the established tuition charge to $1,000 per year for in-state students and $5,000 per year for out-of-state students at UNCP, one of only three campuses selected to participate in the NC Promise Tuition Plan. Students will save thousands of dollars a year resulting in significant savings over a four-year education. Certain to increase demand for a UNCP education, NC Promise will be a major factor in our new strategic enrollment plan, allowing us to serve more students overall and recruit more aggressively nationally and internationally. Our university will continue its historic mission of access to a quality education, while continuing to provide the personal experience that has come to define a UNCP education.

The past year also saw the beginning of changes to the footprint of the university. We broke ground on our new Student Health facility. UNCP effectively lobbied for a $3 million DOT grant which will aesthetically remodel the road along the front of our campus in the coming 18 months.

As we look ahead to 2017, the university’s decisions will be guided by what’s best for our students, who rely on us not only for professional preparation but for life-changing experiences that shape their outlook on the world. I think of 19-year-old Ethan Sanford who was accepted to a prestigious Ph.D. program in biochemistry, and molecular and cell biology after graduating from UNCP in May; former Braves Academic All-American marathon runner Pardon Ndhlovu who competed in this summer’s Olympic Games; and our football team, which won the first post-season game in program history and was ranked 13th in the final Division II coaches’ poll. UNCP exists to change lives through education. It’s that simple. And I give all credit for any success in our efforts to educate to the outstanding staff and faculty at this university. It is the charge of the university’s leadership to provide the laboratory where the change takes root.

Equally important are the thousands of UNCP alumni making a difference everyday across North Carolina and beyond, through public service and leadership in nearly every field you can imagine. These alumni demonstrate why the University of North Carolina at Pembroke exists and why in 2017, 129 years into the vision, we must continue evolving to serve a region, and indeed generations to come, counting on us. It’s an awesome responsibility, and we’re up to the challenge.
Go BRAVES!

Robin Gary Cummings, M.D.
Chancellor

6. Proposal from the Department of Elementary Education

6.6 Program Proposal: add an Elementary specialization to the current Master of Arts in Teaching degree

Rationale: The MAT with a specialization in Elementary Education would be a track added to the current MAT programs at UNCP. This program would be helpful in our teacher preparation program for those who complete an undergraduate degree and come to UNCP for teacher licensure K-6. Currently, those students take undergraduate courses as Licensure Only students. Kelly Ficklin (Elementary), Roger Ladd (MAT/English) and Debra Singletary (Graduate School) have all indicated there has been a desire from prospective students for a MAT that leads to K-6 licensure.

Over the past 5 years, 81 students have applied for a plan of study for licensure only in Elementary Education and 60 of those would possibly be eligible for a MAT program. We have requested additional data from IR.

This program would align with the other MAT programs on campus, supporting the current enrollment in EDN courses and also increase enrollment in ELE graduate courses and other courses listed as elective choices. In expanding our graduate program offerings and those for EDN courses, we would expect to need additional faculty support for teaching depending on program growth.

In this program overview, I’ve included information aligning the program with current MAT practices and talked with Val Ford, Kim Sellers and Roger Ladd about opportunities within the MAT courses and other graduate course opportunities. The Department of Elementary Education also discussed this possible program at our January 27, 2016 meeting and offered suggestions.

We have tried to use current courses offered within the School of Education to grow student enrollment while meeting the needs of teacher candidates preparing for a K-6 classroom. We envision as this program grows, to change with the needs of students, classrooms, state and national initiatives and licensure requirements.

7. Proposals from the Department of History
7.1 Program Proposal: In the B.A. in History, remove History Topics course or HST 4510 requirement from Advanced History and replace with a second course in Asian, African, or Latin American History. In addition, eliminate Program Option 2.

Rationale:
1. Topics courses do not have a consistent identity distinguishing them from other advanced history courses, so there is no compelling reason to require students to take them.
2. HST 4510 has not been offered in at least a decade.
3. Option 1 provides sufficient variety and choice that students do not need an Option 2.
4. History majors need more exposure to the world outside of Europe and North America than can be provided in a single advanced course. Asking them to take a second course outside of these categories is a step in the right direction. It also helps align our History and Social Studies Education program requirements.

7. Proposals from the Department of History

7.2 Program Proposal: Revise B.A. in History with Social Studies Education Content Courses by replacing HSTS 4xxx or HST 4510 requirement with a list of advanced HST options designed to help students better meet NC Standards 1 and/or 4 for Social Studies teachers.

Rationale:
1. HSTS courses do not have a consistent identity that justifies making them a program requirement.
2. HST 4510 has not been offered in at least a decade.
3. It is part of the North Carolina Standards for Social Studies Teacher Candidates that teachers can “know and can facilitate learning about how culture and culture systems function. They are able to teach about how human beings relate to their environment and the impact of that relationship on culture” (standard one) and “know and can facilitate learning about how individual and collective identities are shaped by groups and institutions” (standard 4). Our teacher candidates would benefit from taking a content course that specifically focuses on culture and identity. In doing so, candidates will be exposed to primary sources and a depth of understanding specifically focused on cultural factors. This learning will also better prepare our social studies teacher candidates to better meet their mission to prepare global citizens and develop awareness of socio-cultural diversity in their students.

<tr>
<th>A. Describe how this course supports the overall mission of the General Education Program.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The General Education Program description found in the catalog emphasizes the importance of complex social problems. Many of the social problems faced in our communities are addressed by one of the least understood but most accessible government entities—the local, county, and state governments that surround us. As taught, this course emphasizes the accessibility and importance of both understanding local government but also participating in local government. Students learn that most decisions that affect their daily lives (such as garbage collection, zoning and planning laws, and other local ordinances) are made at the state and local level. Students also learn about the accessibility of local government by citizens by understanding the structure that relies not only on elected officials but also on citizen engagement through voluntary boards and provision of public information.</td>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>B. Explain how the addition of this course will improve the General Education curriculum.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>This will allow more social science options in the area of political science where only two currently exist. In particular, this course will help connect students to an area of life outside of their career path where the expertise they develop through college and career may be helpful to their community. Additionally, this course provides a practical pathway for students to understand one of the most important elements of community engagement—understanding, being aware, and participating in state and local governance.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>C. Identify the General Education Objectives that will be addressed by this course.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Critical thinking—In particular, the course develops the ability to distinguish between facts and opinions, judgments and inferences, inductive, and deductive arguments, and reliable and invalid sources of information. Individual and society—In particular, the course develops the ability to use social science research to create an informed understanding of contemporary social issues as well as apply social science principles and theories to understanding American political phenomenon and social issues. Social responsibility—In particular, the course prepares students for citizenship by identifying avenues for civic action.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>D. Describe the ways General Education Goals and Objectives will be assessed in this course.</th>

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Social responsibility—Students are required to attend any local government meeting (town council, county commission, ABC board, planning commission, etc.) for any town or county. If students are unable to attend...</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
the meeting an alternative assignment is given that allows students to follow an issue as it travels through local government in real time. When students have completed this assignment in the past, they have told me that it made a lasting impact on how easy it is to get involved in local government. Most of the time officials have spent time with students after meetings to encourage them to participate in their communities. The most common response has been that students have realized that local decision-making is more accessible for citizens than expected.

Critical thinking—When discussing any element of politics, the importance of understanding the difference between empirical and normative statements is essential to understanding where more information will help move a debate toward compromise. This course provides a forum for students to practice these skills through several facets: 1) when evaluating what happens at the local government meeting they attend, 2) through discussion of state and local current events—students are pushed by each other and by the professor to assess the sources of their information during discussion, and 3) through a formal description and exploration of core areas of policy innovation by states and local governments.

Individual and society—Students are required to apply the theories and principles they are learning through reading and lecture to analyzing both current events during class discussion, but they also are required to engage in this type of analysis in their last government meeting paper.

E. Describe the anticipated effects that inclusion of this course in the General Education Program will have on department, college, and university personnel and non-personnel resources.*

We expect the PAD/JLS 2010 course to significantly increase the number of students who take this course, allowing it to be a more robust experience for our majors as well as benefitting non-majors. We expect this inclusion to provide a few additional seats for incoming students if we continue to have larger freshman courses. Finally, if this course has increased student demand, we hope to increase the number of times it is offered each year.

3. Attach proposed General Education Course Syllabus using the “add forms” button at the top of the right-hand column.

The syllabus must include:

1. a list of the General Education Goals and Objectives addressed in the course, and
2. a plan for assessing the General Education Goals and Objectives.

Proposal from the Enrollment Management Committee:
Proposal to revise wording of the Military Student Success Policy (Approved 9-0-0)

Proposal for a minor revision to language of the Military Student Success Policy (adopted by Faculty Senate March 2016) to clarify that “60% of the course” and “80% of the course” refer to time elapsed in the term/semester, and to replace the word “semester” with “term” as needed to ensure the policy is interpreted to apply to all academic terms, not just the fall and spring semesters (as required by UNC GA).

Background: As required by the UNC General Administration policy directive “Regulations for Military Student Success” (700.1.1[R]), the Enrollment Management Subcommittee drafted the Military Student Success Policy during the 2015-2016 academic year. This policy was adopted by the UNCP Faculty Senate at the March 2016 meeting. This policy required the development of a form. Work was completed on this form by EMS in the fall of 2016. Upon consideration of the form, Academic Affairs suggested a minor revision of the language of the Military Student Success policy for the purpose of clarification. Revision will be needed in both the Academic Catalog and the material on the Registrar’s website.

1. Military incompletes (IM)--Revise the following paragraph under the Grading System (Undergraduate) as shown:

The “IM,” or the military incomplete grade, is assigned for incompletes to students called to active military duty. The “IM” grade is given when students are deployed for active military duty assignments during the semester an academic term and will be unable to complete coursework for the semester term through an alternative format. It is not given to enable a student to do additional work to improve a grade. The “IM” grade can be assigned with instructor approval if deployment occurs after 60% of the course (e.g. nine weeks of the fall or spring semester) has been completed for the academic term. If deployment occurs after 80% of the course (e.g. twelve weeks of the fall or spring semester) has been completed for the academic term, active duty military students are guaranteed the option of an “IM” if they so choose. The IM grade must be removed within three years of returning from deployment or the grade will convert to a “WM.” See below for more information on the “WM” grade. The “IM” grade will not count toward the determination of quality hours and quality point averages. An “IM” does not fulfill prerequisite requirements. It is the student’s responsibility to request the “IM” grade. Refer to the Registrar’s webpage at www.uncp.edu/registrar for more information about applying for the “IM.”

2. Military withdrawals (WM) -- Revise the following paragraph under the Grading System (Undergraduate) as shown:

The “WM,” or the military withdrawal grade, is assigned for withdrawals of students called to active military duty during the course of a semester an academic term. The “WM” grade is given when students are deployed for active military duty assignments during the semester term and will be unable to complete coursework for the semester term through an alternative format. While students who are deployed on active military duty assignments can opt for the “WM” grade at any point during the semester term, the “WM” grade will be assigned if deployment occurs before 60% of the course (e.g. nine weeks of the fall or spring semester) has been completed for the academic term and an alternative for mat for the course (such as moving to an online section) is not available. When a student receives a “WM” grade, the grade is recorded, but the semester hours attempted are not counted as quality hours. Refer to the Registrar’s webpage at www.uncp.edu/registrar for more information about applying for the “WM.”

REVISIONS FOR THE REQUIRED MATERIAL ON THE REGISTRAR’S WEBSITE

Military Student Success Policies

The University of North Carolina, Pembroke recognizes the unique demands our active duty students may face during the course of a semester an academic term. In order to facilitate the successful completion of courses by military students who may be called to active duty during the course of the semester term, the university provides several options for students that take into account several elements of a course: the amount of the course completed, the nature of the specific course, and the students’ preferences. Each option seeks to mitigate any negative academic consequences that may occur as a result of mid-semester deployments. Should a student be called to active duty during the course of the semester term it is the student’s responsibility to inform the University as soon as possible in order to develop the best plan of action for military student success. Students who must leave the university during the course of an academic term are provided three possible courses of action. Students are encouraged to assess each course individually in choosing which action to take for each course. Students should consult with the Office of Financial Aid about how their choice will affect future aid.

1. Alternative course work or format. Students are encouraged to discuss their deployment with their professors and the department chair to see if there is the possibility to complete the course in an alternative format (such as moving to an online section of the course). This option may not be appropriate for all types of courses, such as courses that require physical activity (P.E. courses) or require supervised work such as a lab. Additionally, such a move may require students to change professors if moving sections or to purchase different course materials that may be utilized in a different section of the course. Students choosing the alternative course work or format option are expected to complete the course on time and meet the deadlines set by the instructor in order to record the grade on time at the end of the term. This option is available at any point during the semester with approval by the instructor and the Associate Vice Chancellor of Enrollment.

2. Military withdrawal (WM). The military withdrawal is a special designation showing that students withdrew from a course because of active deployment. Students are not required to withdraw from all courses if utilizing the military withdrawal during the course of a semester term. For instance, it may be the case that a student withdraws from some courses, takes a military incomplete for other courses, and engages in alternative course work for rest of their courses. More information on the military withdrawal can be found in the Course Academic Catalog under Adding, Dropping, and Withdrawing from Courses on page 67.

3. Military incomplete (IM). The military incomplete is a special designation showing that students have arranged to complete their coursework for a class at a later date as a result of active duty deployment during the course of a semester an academic term. Military incompletes differ in several critical ways from a normal incomplete.

   i. The most significant difference is that the IM completion schedule is much longer; military students must complete the course work for the military incomplete within three years of return from deployment. It is the student’s responsibility to provide the university with an estimated date of return from deployment and to inform the University of any change to the date of return.

   ii. If students with the grade of IM do not complete their course work within three years of the recorded date of return from deployment, course grade will change to a WM. WM grades that are a result of incompletion of an IM grade are not eligible for tuition reimbursement.
iii. If 80% or more of a course (e.g. twelve weeks of the fall or spring semester) is completed before the student leaves on active duty assignment, students are guaranteed the option of taking a military incomplete in the course. Students must complete the steps listed below in order to have the incomplete on record with the university.

iv. Students who have completed less than 80% of a course but more than 60% of a course (e.g. between the ninth and twelfth weeks of the fall or spring semester) before the student leaves on active duty assignment may be eligible to take a military incomplete. Because the skills and requirements of each course are unique, the university requires that students consult with the Assistant Vice Chancellor of Enrollment and gain approval from the instructor in order to take an incomplete during this period of time. Generally, the IM is not available before a student has completed 60% of a course (e.g. nine weeks of the fall or spring semester).

The chart below is provided to help students better understand their options as a result of mid-term active duty assignment.

Process for Military Students Called to Active Duty Mid-term

1. Contact the Associate Vice Chancellor of Enrollment’s Office. Students called to active duty or an official from the Department of Defense must contact the Office of the Associate Vice Chancellor of Enrollment to notify the University of an active duty engagement. Students or a Department of Defense official should provide the office with a copy of the student’s orders as well as an estimated date of return. The Associate Vice Chancellor of Enrollment will notify faculty of the deployment and inform the instructor and chair of what actions need to be taken.

2. Decide on actions for each class. Students should discuss the options for alternative format, military incompletes, and military withdrawal with their instructor. Any agreement that is reached with the instructor must comply with the available options at the point of the semester in which the student deploys. The agreement between the student and the instructor should be recorded on the Military Deployment Agreement Form and turned into the Associate Vice Chancellor for Enrollment. Any questions or difficulties with this process should be referred back to the Associate Vice Chancellor for Enrollment.

3. Recordkeeping. The Associate Vice Chancellor of Enrollment will have 5 business days to inform the student’s professors of the formal decision agreed to in each course. A copy of all completed documents will also be sent to the dean of the college for the course and the chair of the department in cases of military incompleteds. Military Deployment Agreement Forms will be kept on file at the Office of Enrollment for ten years or until coursework is completed, whichever comes first.

4. Updating the University regarding any changes to schedule. It is the student’s responsibility to notify the Associate Vice Chancellor of Enrollment of any changes to their orders including changes to departure date and estimated date of return. If such changes will have an impact on the student’s ability to fulfill their obligations under an IM or with alternative coursework, it is the student’s responsibility to discuss these issues with their professors as soon as possible.

Deployment date | Anticipated return

Students called for active duty during the course of an academic term are provided three possible courses of action for in-progress course work:

1. Students are encouraged to discuss their deployment with their professors and the department chair to determine if the course might be completed in an alternative format (such as moving to an online section of the course). If this option is not available or is not appropriate for a particular course, military withdrawal or the military incomplete must be selected.

2. The IM or the military incomplete grade is assigned to students who
   - have completed at least 60% of the course (e.g. nine weeks of the fall or spring semester) and are unable to complete course work through an alternative format, and
   - have arranged, in cooperation with the instructor, to complete their coursework for a class at a later date (within three years of return from deployment).

   A separate Military Incomplete Form (see Part B) must be completed and filed for each course in which an IM is to be assigned.

3. The WM or the military withdrawal grade is assigned for withdrawals of students called to active military duty during the course of a semester who:
   - have completed less than 60% of the course (e.g. nine weeks of the fall or spring semester) and are unable to complete coursework through an alternative format, or
   - have completed more than 60% of course work in a course, but are unable to complete coursework through an alternative format and have not arranged to complete the coursework for class at a later date through a military incomplete for the course.

   A single Military Withdrawal form (see Part C) must be completed indicating all courses from which the student is withdrawing.

Instructions for completion of this form:

1. The student, in consultation with the instructor, should assess each course in which he or she is enrolled and decide on the course of action most appropriate for that course.

2. In consultation with the instructor, the student should complete a section of this form for each of his/her courses, indicating the decision reached for that course. Additional paperwork (Parts B and/or C) must be completed as indicated.
3. The student should return this form and all accompanying documents (Parts B and/or C) to the Associate Vice Chancellor for Enrollment. The Associate Vice Chancellor for Enrollment will forward copies of the pertinent forms to the Registrar and the Center for Student Success, as well as to the Deans and Chairs.

4. It is the student’s responsibility to notify the Associate Vice Chancellor for Enrollment of any changes to his/her orders, including changes to deployment date and anticipated date of return.

It is not given to enable a student to do additional work to improve a grade. The "IM" grade will not count toward the determination of quality hours and quality point averages. An "IM" does not fulfill prerequisite requirements. A Contract for the Completion of Military Incomplete "IM" Grade must be completed by the student and instructor and filed with the instructor’s Department Chair, Dean, and the Registrar for each course in which they are seeking an IM grade.

The WM or the military withdrawal grade is assigned for withdrawals of students called to active military duty during the course of a semester who:

1. have completed less than 60% of the course (e.g. nine weeks of the fall or spring semester) and are unable to complete coursework through an alternative format, or

2. have completed more than 60% of the course, but are unable to complete coursework through an alternative format and have not arranged to complete the coursework for class at a later date through a military incomplete for the course.

Faculty Assembly Report

Notes from UNC Faculty Assembly Meeting: Thursday-Friday, January 05-06, 2017
By: Mario A. Paparozzi

Meeting theme: Theme: Compensation and Faculty Welfare

Comments by Gabriel Lugo:

- Tenure is important: relates to academic freedom and also a sufficient degree of economic security to make out profession attractive to the best and the brightest.
- Academic freedom is essential for faculty and students.
- Academic freedom extends to research and writings of professors.
- According to the National Science Foundation, 66% of faculty members start with an average debt of $60k.
- There is no increase in compensation even when excellence is achieved after post tenure review (or annual reviews in most instances).
- According to AAUP data, over the past 20 years, the ratio of tenured faculty to non-tenured faculty has moved from 80%/20% to approximately 30%/80%.
- High level administrators are almost always financially rewarded for meritorious performance. Faculty members are frequently not rewarded for meritorious performance.
- Lagging salary rates for faculty needs to be addressed now.
- Faculty turnover is increasing.
- Staff members are leaving the system with increasing frequency.

Comments by President Spellings:

- The strategic planning process is about to wrap up.
- The plan includes input from numerous constituencies.
- It is a terrific foundation to build upon for future success for the entire UNC system.
- How are we using technology, and for why purpose is something that is being given careful consideration.
- Part of the strategic plan focuses on how the UNC system is doing retaining faculty and staff. This is an issue that will be discussed with legislators in the near future.
- The UNC system will be asking the legislature for some relief from deregulation in order to give the UNC system the flexibility that it needs to achieve excellence.
- Faculty members are underpaid. We need to focus on what we are going to do about this.
- The President advised that many legislators feel that UNC system faculty does not possess sufficiently diverse points of view. The sentiment seems to be that faculty almost always disagrees with many things done by legislators. Their latest concern, as an example, is the media attention recently given to a faculty member’s comments that North Carolina is no longer a democracy due to the way that the state has been governed. The President feels that there are likely many points of view within the UNC system. Nevertheless, it seems that one point of view is too often presented.
• An important goal is to recruit the top scholars.
• We need to do a better job educating legislators about the top scholars that exist across the entire UNC system, not just at UNC-Chapel Hill and NC State.
• An important consideration is as follows: Do we have opportunity and high expectations for all citizens of North Carolina? Access, affordability, and completion are critical aspects of the strategic plan.
• Focus on talent, retention, and recruitment are very important components of the strategic plan. We need to do a better job presenting the facts to legislators.
• The UNC-GA needs a much better management information system in order to develop succinct factual reports that demonstrate the needs of the UNC system.

Comments by Matt Brody, UNC-GA, Vice President for Human Resources and Daniel Cohen-Vogel, Associate Vice President for Institutional Research, UNC-GA - Report on Faculty compensation (methodology and approach).

• A faculty compensation study is now underway. It is a complex process that will take some time to complete.
• We must do better at providing clear data to support requests for increases in compensation.
• It is necessary to move beyond anecdotal information about compensation, recruitment, retention, etc.
• A deeper analysis of specific focal areas is needed.
• A replicable analysis is necessary (year over year).
• Compensation data should be discipline specific.
• There are unique characteristics of each UNC institution that must be considered.
• It is important for legislators to understand that the UNC system is competing with other public and private institutions for “top faculty.”
• Compensation considerations need to include salary, benefits, and perhaps reductions on tuition costs for family members who work in the UNC system.

Panel on Student Success: S. Demetriou, UNC-CH. Associate Dean of Retention; S. Williams, ECU. Director STEPP; M. Diede, Director of Coulter Faculty Commons, WCU; Assoc. Prof. D. English, UNG. University Teaching and Learning Commons.

• Focusing on student success is essential.
• GAs definition of student success, as discussed in the strategic plan, acknowledges the responsibilities of faculty and also students.
• Student success must not be narrowly defined. For example, over the course of one year, UNC-Chapel Hill developed a definition of student success. The final definition was informed by research as well as survey responses from 18,000 undergraduates and also faculty and staff. The university student success working group then worked with a design group to present the definition on all university websites, developed posters for faculty and advisor offices, and included of the definition in the student handbook.
• Retention rates have been improving at certain schools that have developed student success centers and hired full-time academic advisors.
• Full-time academic advisors required new students to meet with them every two weeks. The academic advisors address academic issues and also personal issues that are impediments to learning.

• College Star is a grant program administered by ECU and certain partner schools in the UNC system (ASU and FSU are currently involved). The primary goal is to develop strategies that enable all constituent schools to be more welcoming places for students who have learning differences. Students have diverse learning styles. Our approach should acknowledge this fact and develop multiple ways to share learning that accommodate the diverse learning styles of students.

• Student success centers improve retention and graduation rates.

• It is a good idea for faculty to know their students by name. Taking attendance every class conveys a caring faculty attitude to the students. This is a component of student success.

• Junius Gonzalez (Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs) comment: in the future it is probable that funding to universities will be more closely aligned with student retention and completion rates.

Resolutions Passed:

• The resolution related to faculty compensation (previously distributed) passed unanimously.

• The resolution related to legislative encroachments on the functioning of appointed boards such as the UNC Board of Governors (modified slightly from the previously distributed version; final version will be forwarded when I receive it), and which also seem to violate SACs regulations, passed with a few no votes.

Graduate School Actions:

The Graduate Council adopted the following change to the current “Senior Privilege” offering: Senior Privilege will now be Undergraduate Privilege. Undergraduate Privilege is a program offered by UNCP’s Graduate School which allows promising students (typically seniors) the opportunity to take up to twelve hours of graduate coursework while completing their undergraduate degree. With appropriate permission, up to twelve hours of graduate coursework taken as an undergraduate student may count towards both one’s undergraduate degree and future master’s degree at UNCP.

The Graduate Council adopted a process and the following definition for a graduate Certificate Program:
A Graduate Certificate program provides specific professional education in an area of study. Typically around 12 credit hours, a graduate certificate program may be gained as a stand-alone credential, in conjunction with or after a graduate degree is earned or prior to and towards a master’s degree, depending on the program. Successful completion of a certificate is notated on one’s academic transcript.

The Graduate Council adopted the following definition for an Accelerated Degree Program: An Accelerated Degree program allows undergraduate students at UNCP an opportunity to complete the requirements for both the bachelor’s and master’s degrees at an accelerated pace. These undergraduate students may double count up to 12 approved graduate-level credits towards completing the bachelor’s degree. Graduate credit hours may also count towards a master’s degree. Students should note that permission to pursue an Accelerated degree program does not guarantee admission and a student must meet requirements at the time they apply to the graduate program.
