RENOVATION AND EXPANSION

There's an atmosphere of excitement at The University of North Carolina at Pembroke this year. Soon we will all marvel at the new and renovated Mary Livermore Library, which will be renamed the Sampson-Livermore Library. "Renovate" has been defined as "to bring new vigor, to renew." With the renovation and expansion of the library, the University at large senses this renewal and excitement.

As you walk or drive down Faculty Row by the library you see nothing but progress. In the past couple of months steel girders, heating and air ducts, concrete flooring and much more have been put into place. Step inside the library and you will find business and services as usual.

Circulation, reference and serial services, online catalogs, PC's linked to the superhighway of information and much more is what you will find. Granted, a few services have been relocated to the first floor, but it's all part of our saying, "We're here to help you."

On the second floor, you will find a study room, photocopier, and restrooms. You will also find walls being built to accommodate more study areas, the area for the new reading room and additional room for stacks. It is indeed an exciting time to be at UNCP and we are all anticipating the new library with much enthusiasm. The projected completion date is slated for the Fall of 1997.

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY NEWS

*Message from the President
Dr. Len Holmes*

The FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY are very excited about the new things in progress at UNCP. It is obvious that our University has entered a period of development where its ability to serve students, faculty, staff and the surrounding region has increased. The new Lumbee Hall Administration Building is evidence of this growth, as is the renovation of the Business Administration Building. Currently, we can see construction of a new addition to the library which will be called the Sampson-Livermore Library. On your next visit to the library, or if you have a moment to spare, pause briefly at the construction site to see the progress already made. The steel, concrete, heavy machinery and hard hats are a promise of good things to come in the very near future.

As President of the FOL Board I want to express my appreciation to all those creative people who had the vision, expertise and commitment to see that the Sampson-Livermore Library Project became a reality. Change is difficult and growth can often be unsettling. This new library building did not just happen on its own accord. A Board of Trustees, Administration and Faculty that have the perseverance to follow through with proposal, funding and construction phases of a project as large as a new library building deserve the highest commendation. These people have provided a significant and permanent enhancement to the academic infrastructure of The University of North Carolina at Pembroke.

The FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY are hoping to add to the vitality of The University of North Carolina at Pembroke by fostering the existence of a community of persons who love learning. Books, journals and information technology are the treasures of an educated society. The FOL encourage all interested folks to support the Sampson-Livermore Library by becoming members. Joining the FOL is an opportunity for each of us to contribute to the intellectual and academic excellence at UNCP. Membership is offered at several donation levels. Why not give the library a call today and tell them you are interested in showing your support? Please see attached membership application form.

NEW PERSONNEL

Kathleen Powers
Acquisitions/
Collection Development

The newest member to our library faculty is Ms. Kathleen Powers. Kathleen joined the staff in May of 1996 as the Acquisitions/Collection Development Librarian. Since then, she has become well acquainted with the overall operations of Mary Livermore Library, and is the editor of this edition of Library Lines.

Kathleen received her Master's of Library Science degree from The University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Prior to that, she earned her baccalaureate degree from The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Despite what her college credentials indicate, however, Kathleen is not a native of North Carolina. Originally from Yonkers, New York, she and her family moved to Greensboro when Kathleen was still a young girl. Asked if there were noticeable differences between her surroundings in terms of region, she said yes. However, there were more differences in terms of environment, from her standpoint. In New York, Kathleen lived in the suburbs. In North Carolina, she lived in the country. She says that while she might miss the big city sometimes, she still likes living in the country better.

In her spare time, Kathleen enjoys several hobbies. She likes to jog, bike, and lift weights to keep fit. She also enjoys beading (a method of jewelry production) and sewing. In addition, she likes to play pool. This is a little more than just a hobby, however. Kathleen has won a few eightball tournaments in her day. So before any of you would-be pool-sharks go librarian-hunting at the pool halls, keep in mind that Kathleen is no ordinary bookworm you would be shooting with.

Kathleen, as with all the librarians, has many different duties to juggle working in Mary Livermore Library. Aside from this, she is striving to accomplish two goals, in particular, in the Acquisitions Department. One is to completely automate the entire department. This, she reasons, would save immediate time and space--commodities hard to come by these days! The second is to make faculty ordering of materials easier to do. She does not want the faculty to have to worry about procedures and policies. Her goal is to allow them to concentrate on the content of the literature in their field and make decisions on what is best for this library to support their research and curriculum endeavors. Noble pursuits that Kathleen no doubt will achieve in short order!

Since arriving at Pembroke, Kathleen has been a welcome addition to the faculty. She puts forth her full effort and shows total commitment to her duties in the library. From reference to bibliographic instruction, she has done her share of work, and has done it successfully. Expect to hear great things from her in the future. Good luck, Kathleen!

LIBRARY DIRECTOR'S CORNER

As I enter my fourth year as Director of Library Services at The University of North Carolina at Pembroke, I would like to thank you for your use and support of the Mary Livermore Library. From my perspective, the Library has accomplished much in the past few years, and we look forward to continuing improvements in our services, resources, and information technology. Our expansion and renovation project is in its fourth month of construction activity. The project is on schedule and is expected to be completed in the Fall of 1997. When completed, the Sampson-Livermore Library will have a total of approximately 60,000 square feet. This will include a spacious main reading room, wired individual, faculty, and group carrels, a 40 workstation computer lab, a fully networked CD-ROM island, and additional workstations for accessing BraveCat throughout the facility.

It is with pleasure, and a spirit of excitement for the holiday season, that we bring you the Fall issue of our newsletter. As the season approaches, the Livermore Library appreciates your continued moral and financial support. The library faculty and staff wish you their warmest wishes for the holidays and the coming new year.

Dr. Clarence Toomer
Director of Library Services

LIBRARY PREPARES FOR FORTHCOMING EVALUATION

In the near future, the Mary Livermore Library will be evaluated by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) as the University undergoes reaffirmation. SACS criteria are qualitative and allow for some flexibility in interpretation. In many ways, this is an excellent way to rate libraries. An excellent smaller collection, aimed at fulfilling the University's goals, is far better than a large collection of out of date textbooks for courses no longer taught at the University.

However, there are times when a quantitative comparison is useful. The Association of College and Research Libraries (ACRL) has provided those criteria for libraries' collections, staffing, and facilities. The following charts show how well the Mary Livermore Library stacks up against the national norms.

FORMULA A: LIBRARY COLLECTION

For all college libraries in general:

- |  |                |
|--|----------------|
| 1. Basic collection  | 85,000 volumes |
| 2. Allowance per full-time equivalent (FTE) faculty member | 100 volumes    |
| 3. Allowance per FTE student                               | 15 volumes     |
| 4. Allowance per undergraduate major field                 | 350 volumes    |
| 5. Allowance per master's field                            | 6000 volumes   |

For Livermore Library:

- |   |                             |
|---|-----------------------------|
| 1. Basic collection   | 85,000 volumes              |
| 2. Allowance per FTE faculty member (100 volumes, 200 faculty members, 20,000 volumes)    | 20,000 volumes              |
| 3. Allowance per FTE student (15 volumes; 2600 students, 39,000 volumes)                  | 39,000 volumes              |
| 4. Allowance per undergraduate major field (350 volumes; 45 major fields, 15,750 volumes) | 15,750 volumes              |
| 5. Allowance per master's field (6000 volumes; 9 master's fields, 54,000 volumes)         | 54,000 volumes              |
| Total volumes needed to meet criteria:  | 213,750 volumes             |
| ACTUAL bound and microfilm volumes held by Livermore Library                              | 195,900 volumesor 91.6% |

Livermore Library rates a grade of A in terms of its collection.

FORMULA B: LIBRARY STAFFING

For all college libraries in general:

- |  |             |
|--|-------------|
| 1. For each 500 FTE students, or fraction thereof                      | 1 librarian |
| 2. For each 100,000 volumes, or fraction thereof                       | 1 librarian |
| 3. For each 5000 volumes, or fraction thereof added/withdrawn per year | 1 librarian |

For Livermore Library:

- |   |              |
|---|--------------|
| 1. For each 500 FTE students, or fraction thereof (2600 students; 6 librarians)         | 6 librarians |
| 2. For each 100,000 volumes, or fraction thereof (195,000 volumes; 2 librarians)        | 2 librarians |
| 3. For each 5000 volumes, or fraction thereof, added/withdrawn per year (5000+ volumes, |              |

- |  |                     |
|--|---------------------|
| 2 librarians)  | 2 librarians        |
| Total librarians needed to meet criteria:            | 10 librarians       |
| ACTUAL librarians on the staff of Livermore Library: | 9 librarians or 90% |

Livermore Library rates a grade of A- in terms of librarian staffing.

"The support staff shall be no less than 65% of the total library staff, not including student assistants."

- |  |                      |
|--|----------------------|
| Total support staff needed to meet criteria: | 16.71 staff          |
| ACTUAL support staff of Livermore Library:   | 11.50 staff of 68.8% |

Livermore Library rates a C in terms of support staff levels.

- |   |                           |
|---|---------------------------|
| Total staff necessary to meet criteria: | 28.57 total staff         |
| Actual staff of Livermore Library:      | 20.5 total staff or 71.7% |

Livermore Library rates a C in terms of overall staffing.

FORMULA C: LIBRARY SPACE

For all college libraries in general:

- Space for users: one study station, assumed to require 25 to 35 square feet of floor space, for one out of every four FTE students.
- Space for books:
  - For the first 150,000 volumes .10 sq.ft./vol.
  - For the next 150,000 volumes .09 sq. ft./vol.
- Space for the library staff: one eighth of the sum of the space needed for books and users as calculated under (1) and (2) above.

For Livermore Library:

- Space for users: 30 square feet for each 650 FTE students 19,500 sq. ft.
  - Space for books:
    - For the first 150,000 volumes 15,000 sq. ft.
    - For the next 45,900 volumes 4,131 sq. ft.
  - Space for the library staff: one eighth of 38,631 square feet 4,829 sq. ft.
- Total space to meet criteria: 43,460 sq. ft.
Actual space in the Sampson-Livermore Library will exceed this amount.

Livermore Library will rate an A in library space.

It is heartwarming to note that the Mary Livermore Library meets the minimum levels for an A grade in the number of librarians and number of volumes, and that it will substantially surpass the grade in the area of library space. The only area the library is currently lacking in is that of support staff. An area to be wary in remains the number of librarians. With the addition of less than 5000 volumes, another librarian will become necessary to meet the criteria for an A grade.

It must be remembered that many libraries do not meet the suggested criteria--a C would be average. However, the patrons of the Mary Livermore Library at The University of North Carolina at Pembroke deserve an A in all aspects of library service. It is the goal of this library to fully meet the national criteria and surpass them whenever possible.

BraveCat Hits the Web

BraveCat, UNCP's online catalog, is now available in a Web version. Point your browser to <http://www.uncp.edu/library/> to see what the Mary Livermore Library has in store for you. From the library's home page, you can choose to search BraveCat, the UNC Coastal Library Consortium or Britannica Online. From BraveCat, you have access to the Encyclopedia while searching.

The menu on the Web version of BraveCat looks quite similar to the text-based version. The choices are KEYWORDS, Library of Congress SUBJECT Headings, AUTHOR, TITLE, Combined AUTHOR and TITLE, JOURNAL TITLE, CALL NUMBER Searches, ISBN/ISSN Number Search, or Go Back to the Main Menu.

One feature of the Web version of BraveCat is the ability to link to other Web sites, usually home pages of journals or government publications. For example, The American Journal of Political Science has a link to the journal's home page. You can still choose to limit, just as you can in the text-based version. You can also sort lists by reverse chronological order (see related box).

From the Browse screen, you still have the option of extending your search to Central and Western Consortiums. The main difference is that you can no longer choose to search FSU or UNCW. To do that, you must search the UNC Coastal Library Consortium catalog. To get there from a search, choose Start Over (the equivalent to the text-based command N > New Search) and then choose Go back to the Main Menu. From there, you will be in the Consortium's main page.

On the main page of the Consortium, you can choose to do other things that you have been able to do on BraveCat. There you will find the commands "Link To Other Systems And Databases", "Information About The Library", "Reserve Materials", "Interlibrary Services", "View Your Own Library Record", "Suggestions I Have For The Library", "Books I Would Like The Library To Acquire", and "Change Catalog So That It Is Limited To One Institution Only". For the most part, these are the same functions available through the text based version of BraveCat, and subject to the same restrictions.

Under "Links To Other Systems And Databases", the following databases might be of interest. Infotrac and Britannica Online can only be used on campus, not from dialup or through off campus Internet service providers. However, ERIC, Medline, and UnCover Web are available. There is also a large listing of library catalogs that are available through the Web. These are fun to explore, and many of the books will be available to faculty, staff and students through the interlibrary loan services of the University. For local patrons, we continue to recommend using the local public library to obtain these books. These catalogs will vary from place to place, so be sure to read the instructions on the screen. In any case, good Web crawling to you, and don't forget to check us out. If you are having difficulty navigating the Web version of BraveCat, please contact Jean Sexton at 521-6659 and she will be glad to try to assist you in your search.

BraveCat Update

The latest change in BraveCat is very useful for researchers who want a list organized with the most recent acquisitions first. By pressing X when viewing a list, you can change the listing from an alphabetical one to one that is presented in reverse chronological order. For example, if a person wants to see only the most recent books by Stephen King, type S > SEARCH the Library Catalog, A > AUTHOR, king stephen, and finally X. Then instead of seeing The Bachman Books as the first entry, you would find Desperation would be the first entry. Stay tuned for further updates.

Electronic Resources Task Force Takes Charge

The Mary Livermore Library Electronic Resources Task Force (ERTF) met in October to discuss its charge for the 1996-97 academic year: 1) the continued assessment of the electronic information resources and technologies in the Library, and 2) the development of the Library home page.

The task force was created in 1995 to evaluate, recommend, and keep abreast of electronic information retrieval systems and technologies for the Library. Its mission is to provide the electronic resources which best satisfy the University's educational needs and endeavors. Since its creation, the ERTF has accomplished many tasks and made improvements, such as surveying the UNCP faculty for input regarding discipline-related databases, surveying North Carolina academic libraries regarding electronic resources offered; recommending the purchase of CD-ROM and online databases; requesting online databases for trial usage; and recommending the purchase of workstations for research access to the World Wide Web.

The ERTF welcomes faculty members' suggestions and ideas regarding both current and future electronic resources and retrieval systems. Currently, the task force members are Emmett Lombard, Kathleen Powers, Cindy Saylor, Jean Sexton, and Clarence Toomer.

REFERRING TO THE WEB

The increasing popularity of the World Wide Web and the overwhelming access to information have caused the competition among web browsers and search engines to intensify tremendously. For most web surfers, much of the excitement in finding a cool website is the journey. However, for many users of Netscape, Internet Explorer, and Mosaic time is money and users want to find the best information available as quickly as possible. Of much interest are the large numbers and wide varieties of reference sources that can currently be visited on the web, especially since we cannot individually afford to own many of these sources and library reference items do not circulate. As with all research, regardless of whether it is done in a print or electronic format, please see your reference librarian for assistance. He or she will be glad to show you how to access these resources.

GPO Access

http://www.access.gpo.gov/su\_docs/aces/aaces001.html

A service of the U.S. Government Printing Office, this free access to government information and documents provides links to full-text sources such as The Federal Register, Congressional Record, and Congressional Bills. Users can search over 50 databases including The Budget of the United States Government, Fiscal Year 1997; the Congressional Directory, 1995-1996; the Economic Report of the President 1996; the Privacy Act Issuances, 1993 Compilation; and the United States Code. Access government agencies such as the Agency for Health Care Policy and Research, the Federal Maritime Commission, the Food and Drug Administration, the Office of Government Ethics, and the United States Commission on Civil Rights.

Bartlett's Familiar Quotations

<http://www.columbia.edu/acis/bartleby/bartlett/>

One of the most famous quotation reference works, Bartlett's 9th edition provides passages, phrases, and proverbs traced to their sources and offers customized searching by author, literary work, words or phrases, and boolean expressions. The access is free and the web source is easy to use.

USA Today

<http://www.usatoday.com/>

One of the most widely read daily newspapers is at your fingertips with all the news of the day and no inky residue. The Top News of the Day is sectioned by subject (i.e. politics, sports, money), and individual stories are indexed by topic (i.e. Unabomber, Supreme Court decisions, women's tennis), and linked to previous stories printed by the paper. This site makes researching a topic easier and is, in many cases, actually better than the printed version.

Pediatric Database

<http://www.icndata.com/health/pedbase/>

Reference to more than 500 childhood diseases, from Aarskog Syndrome to Zellweger's Syndrome, are indexed in this database. Entries include a description of the disorder or disease, the risk factors, symptoms, diagnostic tests, treatments, and prognosis. Information may be viewed or downloaded.

MapQuest Interactive Atlas

<http://www.mapquest.com/>

This interactive site provides access to maps anywhere in the continental U.S., sometimes Canada and Mexico, and the opportunity to customize and save your own geographic-information seeking page. Membership is free and the site is easy to use. Plan the drive for your next trip, as well as select featured areas you'd like to visit.

Culturefinder

<http://www.culturefinder.com/cv.htm#TOP>

Want to see a musical on your next business trip to New York or enjoy some local culture on your upcoming vacation to New Orleans? Visit this site for information about the upcoming events in cities across the United States and Canada. Just select a city and a date to view what upcoming events are scheduled. Ticket information is provided.

North Carolina Encyclopedia

<http://hal.dcr.state.nc.us/nc/cover.htm>

The State of North Carolina has provided an encyclopedia about North Carolina, its history, government, people, and resources. Choose from the categories Biographies, Counties and Communities, Education, Geography, History, State Government, and State Symbols, then select a topic of interest. Visit a map detailing the historical sites in North Carolina, look at a complete copy of the state Constitution, find out North Carolina's state beverage, and explore the state's topography. A continuous work in progress, this source is already satisfying many information needs concerning North Carolina.

AT&T Toll-Free Internet Directory

<http://www.tollfree.att.net/dir800>

Search for 800 numbers of companies all over the country by business category, name, city and state, and also by 800 number. Over 150,000 businesses and organizations can be found quickly and at no cost. Comparison shop, locate hard-to-find items, shop from home, or complain to customer service representatives.

The Merck Manual of Diagnosis and Therapy

<http://www.merck.com/!!ruRmC05L4ruRmC05L4/pubs/mmanual/>

The sixteenth edition of this standard medical reference work is free for anyone to access and search. When visiting the Merck website for the first time, you are asked to register. The basic questions are asked: name, address, phone number, profession, whether or not you own a hardcopy of the manuals, and whether or not you'd be interested in purchasing a layperson's version. After registering which takes about two minutes, you are forwarded to the manual's table of contents. From here you can point and click until you find the information you desire. No differences between the hardcopy and web version are apparent, except for the obvious.
