History and Development of the Credentialing Process in North Carolina 61

NCSAPPB General Statute and Administrative rules - links 63
Forward

The North Carolina Substance Abuse Professional Practice Board (NCSAPPB) was established by N.C. General Statute 90.113.32 to register, certify and license qualified persons who desire to provide professional substance abuse-related services to the public. The procedures developed to accomplish this mission are codified in Title 21, Chapter 68 of the North Carolina Administrative Code. The information provided in this manual is aimed to aid persons desiring to practice substance abuse-related services in applying, registering and acquiring credentials to do so. Each section describes processes and procedures related to the particular credential.

Providing ethical care requires special knowledge and skills that must be obtained in order to earn the status of “professional”. Substance abuse professionals have an ethical obligation to demonstrate competence and to continue personal growth and development as part of attaining and maintaining professional status. The NCSAPPB is dedicated to protecting the public by ensuring that professionals working in variety of substance abuse-related services are providing safe and competent services. NCSAPPB (hereafter referred to as “the Board”) is a member board of the International Certification and Reciprocity Consortium (IC&RC). Professionals already credentialed by a member board may transfer their credentials using the reciprocity process.

The credentials offered through the Board are Certified Substance Abuse Counselor (CSAC), Licensed Clinical Addictions Specialist (LCAS), Certified Clinical Supervisor (CCS), Certified Substance Abuse Prevention Consultant (CSAP) and Certified Criminal Justice Addictions Professional (CCJP). In addition a non-IC&RC credential in Residential Facility Direction is offered. Please see the page for each credential for details that define it, the application and registration processes as well as the completion process for acquiring the full credential.

The Board administers the IC&RC (International Certification and Reciprocity Consortium) exams for all credentials that have an examination requirement.

The Board uses an endorsement process for continuing education in the forms of workshops and conferences that guarantees their acceptance towards re-credentialing. Information on applying for endorsement is contained in this manual.

Whether you are an applicant seeking certification or licensure in this profession, an employer hoping to establish competence of your employees through credentialing, or a provider of education services, we hope you will find the information you are seeking here.
OVERVIEW OF CREDENTIALING

In order to obtain any of the credentials granted through the Board an applicant must follow the procedures outlined in each of the applicable sections. NOTE: Since Fall 2014 the application and registration process has used an online portal from the Board website called LearningBuilder. To determine which of the credentials the applicant is qualified to seek, locate the page for each credential. Minimum required education levels, special coursework and education are described in those sections as well as on the Board website.

Credentials may be granted in stages. For example, after completion of the registration process, qualified applicants are granted “Registered” status (which may continue up to 5 years, under supervision, while the applicant completes the balance of educational and experience requirements. Individuals MUST REGISTER with the Board prior to providing professional services.

Once registered, applicants must complete the remaining requirements before being granted the credential. Education and training are meant to be completed during the registration period. Education requirements may be met through certificates in substance abuse offered by many colleges and universities, though the requirements may also be met through other forms of continuing education as well. The supervised practical training requirements may also be met through such certificate/degree programs. See each individual credential “page” for specific rules and procedures for acquiring that credential).

Credentialing Period and Renewal

A granted credential is active for a period of two (2) years by the end of which renewal is necessary to retain the credential. Each earned credential must be renewed “every other year” from the time it was granted. A minimum number of continuing education credits must be completed by the renewal deadline. Additional requirements (e.g. documentation, supervision agreements (in some cases), fees to be paid) must also be met to prevent a lapse of the credential. The Board cannot issue extensions for renewal. Failure to meet renewal requirements by the end of the credentialing period will result in an expired credential. Failure to renew certification or licensure by the due date and continuing to practice in that area is illegal. Those who practice or aid or abet another to practice with a lapsed credential may be found guilty of a Class 1 misdemeanor. (G.S. 90.113.43-.44) Therefore, it is imperative for credentialed professionals to seek continuing education throughout the time period and to apply in advance of the end of a credentialing cycle.

Education and Training Information

See the section for each credential for the specific education and training requirements.

Examinations – testing and retesting

Registrants for certification or licensure must pass a computer-based examination developed by the IC&RC designated for the credential for which they are applying before being granted certification or licensure. (Those applying for LCAS under deemed status provisions may be required to take the exam unless an exam was part of the credentialing process of their professional deemed-status organization).

Upon the failure of an applicant to achieve a passing score on the examination, an applicant may request a re-examination and pay a non-refundable re-examination fee of one hundred fifty dollars ($150.00) after a period of three months from the date of the failed test.
APPLICATION PROCESS (for all credentials)

Individuals now apply for all credentials using a web-based software program called LearningBuilder accessed through the NCSAPPB website. Supportive documentation must be uploaded in a digital format as described below. Before creating a “Learning Plan” applicants will need:

- Access to an internet-connected computer.
- Electronic copies of needed documents. (If applicant does not have direct access to a scanner, s/he will need to use a commercial service (e.g. Staples) and save them onto a flash drive to be uploaded.) Accepted formats include: .pdf, .docx, .rtf, or .jpeg.
- Knowledge of “uploading” a digital file to a webpage.
- A credit card (MC, Visa, Discovery, AmEx or a prepaid card) for paying $25 (non-refundable) application fee (per credential)

Procedure:

1. Applicants will create an account that will be used to complete requirements and to track progress.
   a. The login i.d. (identification) will be the user’s email and a user-created password. (The software walks you through this process).
   b. Applicants will be asked to supply some basic demographic data (address, phone number(s), email, date of birth, gender, last 4 of social security number) to create a profile.
   c. The account will also allow applicants to view documentation uploaded during the application process in the tab “My Library”. It also keeps a record of emails with staff in “My Communication”.

2. Potential applicants should read the pages associated with each credential to identify the one(s) for which they meet basic qualifications. A non-refundable $25 application fee is required before accessing a particular credential so it is important to choose the correct credential. (Contact the Board staff for assistance before possibly choosing in error.)
   a. If applying for LCAS an official transcript must be requested to be sent before paying the application fee and continuing the application process.

3. Sign into the Learning Builder platform (once account is created) and choose the name of the credential for which you are interested in applying under the “Learning Plans” tab.

4. Choose whether you will be applying with a NEW application or with RECIPROCITY (from another state in which you hold an active credential).

5. Pay the $25 application fee (by credit card). Payment of the application fee will “open” the applicant to the Registration Process for the credential chosen.

Background Investigation

Every applicant must agree to a criminal background investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation (SBI).

(1) Complete the section of the Learning Builder program giving permission by uploading a signed (by both applicant and law enforcement official doing fingerprint scan) Release of Information; (NOTE: Applicants who fail to upload the signed Release or upload the wrong documents (e.g. scanned fingerprint cards are NOT acceptable; this is NOT a LIVESCAN) will delay the Registration Process.

(2) Submit the (non-refundable) fee. (As of 2015, this fee was $38.

Please note that a LIVESCAN of an applicant’s fingerprints is required as part of the registration process. Applicants must contact a local law enforcement agency (e.g. sheriff’s department) to inquire about available times and any associated fees with obtaining the LIVESCAN. A photo ID, such as a driver’s license, is required at the time of the LIVESCAN. Applicants will submit this scan to the Board who will arrange for the SBI investigation.

REGISTRATION PROCESS

For detailed information on completing the registration process, go to the directions for the specific credential you are seeking (see Table of Contents for page numbers).

The identified Clinical Supervisor(s) (CCS or CSI) will be sent a link by email to verify completion and describe Intern’s job duties in LearningBuilder.

NOTE: Continuous supervision is required to legally practice. If registrants change supervisors they must immediately inform the Board and provide name and address of their new supervisor within 30 days of ending prior supervision to avoid suspension of credentialing status.

History and Development of the Credentialing Process in North Carolina

Beginning in the early 1970’s two voluntary professional organizations, The Addiction Professionals of North Carolina (APNC) and The Association of Drug Abuse Prevention (ADAP) recognized the need to increase accountability and competency in both the programs and the staff who provided substance abuse prevention, intervention and treatment services. Prior to this the state personnel system had established an examination process for alcoholism counselors but it was not popularly believed that this process was assuring competency in the field. Also, drug abuse counselors working in community mental health centers or its contract agencies had no classification within the state personnel system whatsoever. In response, the APNC and ADAP separately appointed study committees to investigate the possibility of establishing independent peer review boards to begin the voluntary process of certification.

Both groups proceeded in similar but separate fashion, establishing The North Carolina Alcoholism Certification Board, Inc. in January of 1976 and shortly after, The North Carolina Drug Abuse Professional Certification Board, Inc. in December 1978. These two Boards operated apart from, but in cooperation with, their parenting bodies and sought non-profit, non-partisan and non-political status through legal incorporation. As both became operational, the response from the field indicated that drug and alcohol practitioners supported and endorsed this concept by their active application and participation in the certification process.

Historically, the board membership for both groups was established by selection of two practitioners from each of the mental health service regions chosen by the presidents of ADAP and APNC, appointed representatives of the state office and five members who were chosen by the appointees that represented consumers of services, laypersons and other professional disciplines who had an interest in alcohol and drug abuse services. These board members served voluntarily and without pay, as does the current board, to establish the criteria, process for testing and evaluation and policy/procedures for certification in North Carolina.

Funding for these early efforts was initially provided by the parenting professional organizations until the respective boards became operational and began to collect fees for the certification process. Additional funding was obtained through the Single State Agency but emphasis has been strong toward gaining financial stability through the established fee process thereby insuring autonomy and independence from any specific grantor, which is critical to maintaining the integrity needed for the objective and non-partisan establishment of standards for professional competence.

As both boards continued to certify applicants, it became apparent that trends in the field and the commonality of the issues involved led to the merger of both groups into one single certifying body. In the spring of 1984, representatives of both certification boards met with officials in the state Department of Human Resources, Division of Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities and Substance Abuse Services to study and evaluate this issue. After much discussion by all concerned, it seemed both financially and organizationally sound to merge into a single board. The needs of both groups, as well as the common interest in substance abuse, seemed to be better served by this merger.

Concurrent with this movement the state Division of Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities and Substance Abuse Services was reviewing the Standards for Area Programs and their Contract Agencies document that set minimum standards for service delivery. It was the consensus of all parties involved that certification was a necessary and viable process for inclusion in this document. This issue was hotly debated both in the field and at public hearings conducted by North Carolina Substance Abuse Professional Practice Board, Inc., and the Commission for Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities and Substance Abuse Services. Support for inclusion was varied among those outside the mainstream of substance abuse services, but within the field itself there was almost unanimous support and endorsement. This critical point in the evolution of the process presented in this manual will always be hailed as the turning point in the professionalization of substance abuse practice in the State of North Carolina.

The North Carolina Substance Abuse Professional Certification Board, Inc. became a duly chartered corporation in August 1984. Board members of both existing organizations were chosen by their peers to serve on this new board and equal representation was achieved by the choice of eight from each group. This new Corporation was organized for the following purposes:

1. To establish standards for professional practice in the alcohol and other drug abuse service delivery system,

2. To provide a means by which individuals certified under these standards may be recognized and identified as possessing the competencies necessary to practice as professionals in the alcohol and other drug abuse field, and

3. To establish a means by which alcohol and other drug abuse professionals may demonstrate their integrity and credibility to the general public as well as to other professionals. From the earliest meeting of this new organization, the hope was that those professionals who had supported both pre-existing groups would continue their support and strengthen this new effort as they worked to find common ground between those who worked specifically in alcohol and specifically in drug abuse for the betterment of the entire substance abuse profession.

In 1994 the Board amended its by-laws and instituted a system whereby the majority of the members of the Board were to be elected by the certified professionals in the state. The first balloting resulted in the election of four women, each from a different region of the state. This change was made by the Board in order to give more of a voice in the certification process to those persons who were being certified by the Board.

On July 14, 1994, the North Carolina General Assembly unanimously passed House Bill 1142 establishing the NCSAPCB as the statutorily-based independent credentialing board for the State. The NCSAPCB is charged by statute with protecting the public from “incompetent [substance abuse] practitioners.” Then in 1997, passage of Senate Bill 712 added an advanced credential with a degree requirement and, in 1999, a process was added to phase-in supervision of counselor applicants by persons credentialed by the Board as Certified Clinical Supervisors.

On August 22, 2005, the General Assembly of North Carolina enacted legislation changing the Board’s statute from title protection to practice protection. Full licensure was enacted in the state for all addiction professionals. The Board’s name changed to The North Carolina Substance Abuse Professional Practice Board.

North Carolina’s standards are in compliance with the International Certification and Reciprocity Consortium/Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse, Inc. which establishes standards for practice in many of the U.S. states as well as foreign countries.

Today there are 2,800 substance abuse professionals credentialed in North Carolina. These persons hold certificates as counselors, clinical addictions specialists, prevention consultants, residential facility directors, criminal justice addictions professionals, and clinical supervisors. Two to three thousand more are in the process of being credentialed.

The North Carolina Substance Abuse Credentialing Procedures are established by state law: General Statute Chapter 90, Article 5C known as the North Carolina Substance Abuse Professional Practice Act. Further clarification of this Act is also found in the North Carolina Administrative Code, Title 21 (Occupational Licensing Boards), Chapter 68 (Certification Board for Substance Abuse Professionals).
