BraveNation:

Since 1887, The University of North Carolina at Pembroke has provided students with a high-quality education, preparing them with a promising, successful future. As chancellor, I’m extremely proud of what we have accomplished, of the university’s growth, including our enrollment, programs and campus infrastructure.

But we have so much more to accomplish. And to get there, we are setting bold goals to motivate us. But reaching them takes intentional planning to collectively set us on a successful course.

To guide our university over the next five years, the Strategic Planning and Resource Council (SPARC), invested a tremendous amount of time and passion into creating UNC Pembroke’s 2020-2025 Strategic Plan, Purpose • Promise • Possibility.

In a rapidly changing world, it’s important for UNCP to advance meeting our students’ needs while simultaneously enhancing the personalized experience that makes our campus special. This plan identifies key objectives within five goals—innovative academic programming, engaged and supported student experiences, operational excellence, celebrating UNCP’s unique heritage, and regional and community engagement—essential to ensuring our university’s progress and success. As we implement this plan over the next five years, each strategic objective and goal will push us toward our vision for our university.

The University of North Carolina at Pembroke is, indeed, here with a purpose and a promise to create possibility in the lives of our students, faculty, staff and university community.

Sincerely,

Robin Gary Cummings, MD
Chancellor
THE STRATEGIC PLANNING PROCESS

SPARC CO-CHAIRS:
Dr. Mark Milewicz
Christie Poteet
In March of 2019, Chancellor Robin Cummings appointed Dr. Mark Milewicz, professor of Political Science, and Ms. Christie Poteet, director of the Office of Community and Civic Engagement, as co-chairs of a 27-member Strategic Planning and Resource Council (SPARC). The SPARC committee, whose membership represents different key constituencies of the university, was charged with developing a new strategic plan for the university.

The strategic planning process, spanning over 13 months (March 2019 – April 2020), was a comprehensive, time-intensive and inclusive effort. Drawing on structures from the previous planning cycle, the 2020-2025 strategic planning process was based on five distinct phases: (1) Organization; (2) Data gathering; (3) Making sense of the data; (4) Developing goals and objectives; and (5) Review, revision and approval. Through all five phases of the strategic planning process, the SPARC committee met over ten times.

The process formally began in March 2019 with SPARC developing the organizational components of the process such as developing a timeline and communication strategy. Prior to any data collection, and upon review of the existing strategic plan, SPARC determined that the existing Vision, Mission, Values, and Institutional Distinctiveness statements in the existing plan were not in need of revision; however, significant time and energy would be needed in support of revisions to University Goals and Objectives.

Throughout the summer of 2019, the committee planned a detailed data collection effort that involved campus-wide forums, focus groups, community engagement efforts, and an online survey instrument. In all, 12 focus groups and forums were held from September to October 2019. The survey, which closed in early October, yielded over 1,700 responses and 300 pages of response data.

In October 2019, the committee began the third phase of the planning process, which involved data analyses. All members reviewed a significant volume of data and coded for themes that would help inform the goals and objectives, ensuring that they would also align with UNC System expectations. Common themes were identified, distilled into draft goals and objectives, and shared with the Cabinet in November and December 2019, after which more advanced drafts were developed.

In the spring of 2020, a full draft of the 2020-2025 UNCP Strategic Plan was shared with the campus and campus governing structure. This process included review by the SGA, Staff Council, Faculty Senate, Chancellor and Cabinet, and finally the Board of Trustees in April of 2020.

SPARC’s proposed involvement in the strategic plan’s five-year implementation, most specifically in monitoring proposed strategic action plans that emerged from the data collection effort in the fall of 2019, was communicated to the Chancellor’s Cabinet in January and February of 2020. Understanding that strategic plans also need to be flexible and adaptive to changing environments, it is possible for alignment needs at the system level or long-term needs of the university to result in some adaptation of this plan’s goals and objectives. An implementation report and the re-establishment of the SPARC committee to revise the plan for the 2025-2030 strategic planning cycle is expected in 2024.

MISSION OF UNC PEMBROKE

Founded in 1887 as a school for the education of American Indians, The University of North Carolina at Pembroke now serves a distinctly diverse student body and encourages inclusion and appreciation for the values of all people. UNC Pembroke exists to promote excellence in teaching and learning, at the graduate and undergraduate levels, in an environment of free inquiry, interdisciplinary collaboration and rigorous intellectual standards.

Our diversity and our commitment to personalized teaching uniquely prepare our students for rewarding careers, postgraduate education, leadership roles, and fulfilling lives. We cultivate an international perspective, rooted in our service to and appreciation of our multi-ethnic regional society, which prepares citizens for engagement in global society. Students are encouraged to participate in activities that develop their intellectual curiosity and mold them into responsible stewards of the world. UNCP faculty and staff are dedicated to active student learning, engaged scholarship, high academic standards, creative activity and public service. We celebrate our heritage as we enhance the intellectual, cultural, economic and social life of the region.

VISION OF UNC PEMBROKE

The University of North Carolina at Pembroke will challenge students to acknowledge and adapt to an ever-changing global environment. To this end, the student’s university experience will emphasize critical thinking, effective communication, service and social responsibility. Within a culture that promotes the student’s personal, social, and professional development, we will assure excellence that is discipline-specific as well as interdisciplinary. As part of their academic experiences, students will be provided with opportunities to conduct relevant undergraduate and graduate research that contributes to the betterment of society.
CORE VALUES OF UNC PEMBROKE

The faculty and staff of UNC Pembroke are guided by the following set of core values.

The commitment to serving the local region.

The creation, exploration, evaluation and articulation of ideas.

The value of a liberal arts foundation as the basis of self-realization and lifelong learning.

The importance of honor and integrity to learning and leadership as we educate students to be stewards of the world.

The appreciation of the American Indian history of the university and local community.

The appreciation of diversity and respect for the dignity and worth of every individual.

The commitment to prepare graduate and undergraduate students to succeed in an ever-changing and increasingly technological global environment.

The accessibility of education which leads to the enhancement of the economy and culture in the region.

The maintenance of a sustainable, safe, healthful, attractive and accessible campus.
The University of North Carolina at Pembroke distinguishes itself from peer institutions by offering an affordable, highly personalized, student-centered education to diverse students. Founded in 1887 as an American Indian institution to serve the Lumbee people, UNCP is now also comprised of students, faculty and staff who possess differing attributes based on race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, disability status, national origin, age, political affiliation, religion and other characteristics. Diversity grounds intellectual pursuits and provides us with opportunities for discovery and ways to integrate all individuals and groups into the larger community, respecting and valuing their uniqueness, while simultaneously advancing the university’s historical tradition. UNC Pembroke thus prepares its students for life and leadership within a diverse society.
