Michael Nagorka has replaced long-time UNCP food services manager Kurt Hoffman.

Buffet buffs at UNCP have little to fear. Mr. Nagorka is a veteran university food services manager with 13-year at Sodexho (the company dropped the Marriott name last year).

“I had always heard this was a great staff, and I am a believer now after seeing them in action,” Nagorka said.

He will serve on an interim basis until a permanent general manager is hired later this semester.

Mr. Hoffman retired after eight years with Sodexho at UNCP. On Dec. 21, he married Catering Supervisor Janice (Locklear) Hoffman.
Campus engineer offers paper

University Engineer Bess Tyner presented a paper along with Judy Close of the Focus Group at the Society for College and University Planning meeting in Savannah. Entitled, “Weeding and Seeding the Garden, or the $54 million dollar question,” the paper discussed some of the processes UNCP has undertaken to study the space needs, present and future, of the campus.

LAYNE WRITES ‘OP-ED’ PIECE

Dr. Norman Layne, a sociology professor, penned an “op-ed” piece that was published in the "Fayetteville Observer”’s, Wednesday, Jan. 2 edition.

Entitled, “Get the facts on NBC and alcohol,” the opinion piece offered a rebuttal to the liquor industry’s defense of advertising distilled spirits on television.

JOURNAL PUBLISHES CARE’S ARTICLE

Dr. Patrick Cabe, Department of Psychology and Counseling, has had an article accepted for publication in the American Journal of Psychology. The article, titled “Descartes’ blind man revisited: Bimanual triangulation of distance using static hand-held rods,” was co-authored by former UNCP students, Mark Wright and Cheryl Wright.

Dr. Cabe also had an invited column published in the Psychology Teachers Network newsletter. The column reviewed some mechanisms of binocular vision.

Morfesis completes doctoral work

Gail Morfesis, a faculty member in the Music Department, completed her doctoral degree at the University of Kentucky during the fall semester. Her dissertation was entitled, “Tune and Text: Stylistic Considerations in the Solo Songs of Aaron Copland.” She will be hooded in the May commencement on the Lexington, Ky., campus.

Ross a top N.C. ‘public intellectual’

In D.G. Martin’s weekly newspaper column, Dr. Tom Ross (geography) was named one of North Carolina’s leading “public intellectuals.” Also on the list are Billy Graham, William Friday, Jesse Helms and John Hope Franklin among others.

Mr. Martin defines public intellectual as, “a living North Carolinian whose ideas and opinions are regularly published .. and whose views have a real impact on the way a significant number of North Carolinians live their lives, understand the world around them, and make choices about how they will be governed and by whom.”

The column is carried in approximately 65 newspapers throughout the state. Mr. Martin was interim vice chancellor for Advancement at UNCP.

In Memory

Dr. David K. Kuo was killed in an automobile mishap Saturday, Jan. 5 in Cary, where he lived with his wife Dr. Elizabeth Kuo.

A native of Taiwan, Dr. Kuo taught in the Biology Department at UNCP from 1966-96. Elizabeth taught geography at UNCP for 29 years.

“He was an absolutely wonderful human,” said Dr. Bonnie Kelley, chair of the Biology Department.

“He will be dearly missed.”
